TITO SENDS FORCES TO ITALY'S BORDER

U.S. Troops Form Battlelines Facing S. Korea as a Warning

Move Taken In Answer to Plea by India

Show of Force Comes On Heels of Warning Against Interference

PANMUNJOM (AP) — American "alert troops" with tanks and flamethrowers took up positions pointing south today in an ominous warning against South Korean threats to attack Indian soldiers guarding war prisoners in the neutral zone.

The show of strength followed an Indian appeal for American aid in curbing any South Korean drive toward the compounds housing 22,600 anti-Communist North Korean and Chinese POWs.

The U. S. State Department only Friday assured India it would take precautions to head off possible South Korean interference.

Will Resist Attack

The State Department also disclosed that it had—prior to the Indian appeal—warned South Korea that the U. N. Command would forcibly resist any attempt to free the POWs or attack Indian troops.

South Korea, which considers India pro-Communist, has repeatedly threatened to drive the Indians from Korea—by force, if necessary.

The situation tightened after the Indians killed 3 POWs and wounded 10 recently in putting down two attempted escapes by the prisoners.

Meanwhile, Allied engineers worked speedily constructing facilities near Panmunjom where the Communists will interview the North Korean and Chinese POWs who refuse to go home.

Camp To Be Ready Monday

The camp is scheduled for completion Monday morning and it is possible that the explanations designed to persuade POWs to accept repatriation will get under way at that time.

The explanations have been delayed since Sept. 26, mainly because of a snarl over facilities. Both the U. N. Command and Reds turned down centers built by the other and demanded detailed changes.

There was no official indication whether the U. N. Command teams would start meeting with the 359 former Allied soldiers who have refused repatriation. This number includes 23 Americans and 1 Britton.

Allies in No Hurry

A spokesman said the UNC was in no hurry because of the small number involved.

The 14,700 Chinese POWs staged celebrations Saturday morning in observance of the Nationalist Chinese Independence Day.

At the same time, four North Korean prisoners who changed their minds and asked to be repatriated were turned over to the Communists.

UNITED APPEALS DAY PROCLAIMED. Monday has been designated as "United Appeals Campaign Day" by Mayor Harold F. Robinson (center) in a proclamation presented to Cutler A. McGrew (left), general chairman of the 1953-54 Marion County United Appeals campaign. Looking on is L. H. Larsen, chairman of publicity. A kickoff breakfast at 7:30 a.m. Monday in the new YMCA will launch the drive. Calling for "full community support of the campaign" through voluntary contributions, the proclamation points out that "few of us could, or would care to live, do business, conduct our professions, make our homes, bring up our children in the City and County of Marion if these important social services were not available."

Police Identify Weapon Used In Pike Killings

Philadelphia Posse Searches for Suspect In Suburbs of City

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP) — Pennsylvania State Police today positively identified a foreign-made pistol as the gun used in the murder of two truckers on the Pennsylvania Turnpike and the wounding of another driver.

Col. C. M. Wilhelm, state police commissioner, announced that today as law officers continued the hunt for a 26-year-old "highly dangerous" man sought in connection with the killings.

Lieut. Louis Whitecootton, state police ballistics expert, ran the gun through a series of intensive tests to link the gun with the slugs used in the shootings, said Wilhelm.

"We found it to be the same weapon used in all cases," said Wilhelm. "We are now conferring with Ohio police authorities and working out furter details."

In Philadelphia police pressed a midnight-to-dawn search in suburban areas today for a man they believed to be the Pennsylvania turnpike killer, but said he constantly eluded them.

G Andrew McLaughlin, superintendent of Lower Merion police, said the description of the man fitted that of John Wesley Wable, 26, "highly dangerous" suspect who is being sought by police of several states.

The German pistol was brought here for the tests after Cleveland

Cancer Detection Clinic Is Backed by Local Unit

This is one in a series of articles on agencies participating in the United Appeals fund campaign, showing how your contributions help to make the community a better place in which to live. This year's campaign for $170,461 begins Oct. 12.

A cancer detection clinic at the Marion City Hospital and an information center at the YMCA are maintained by the Marion County Unit of the American Cancer Society, a participating agency in the Marion County United Appeals.

Examinations are made every Thursday morning by appointment. The clinic is available to persons in all walks of life and is fully equipped for complete examination for the detection of cancer.

THE INFORMATION center at the YMCA is for the dissemination of literature and facts concerning detection of and the latest developments in the treatment of cancer as well as of the servies that are available for detection.

The information center is open each Tuesday afternoon from 1 to 4 p.m. and the clinic at the hospital is open each Thursday morning. More than 240 persons are examined annually at the clinic. Appointments may be made each week day from 12 noon to 1 p.m. and 5 to 6 p.m. by calling 2-9010.

IN ADDITION to the clinic and information center the unit maintains a speakers' bureau of local doctors, and related films are available to all groups and organizations desiring to set up programs on the subject of cancer for general educational purposes. These are under the direction of Mrs. J. Malcolm Strelitz.

Local doctors are sent annually to well-known metropolitan cancer centers to learn the latest techniques and developments in the field of cancer in order to bring this information back to this community.

A small emergency fund is available for use in critical cases where other help is not immediately available. J. H. Taft heads the local organization.

The unit's budget in the current campaign is $13,500.

Shells Explode After Wreck; 3 Meet Death

OMAHA (AP) — An ammunition truck rammed a passenger car on a busy four-lane highway 10 miles west of here last night and then let go with a series of explosions showering fragments of artillery shells over a wide area.

Three persons were killed and two injured. A fourth death was attributed indirectly to the collision and fire. The co-owner of a nearby inn died of a heart attack.

The series of explosions — one spectator counted 73 — imperiled hundreds of persons attracted to the scene by the fiercely burning blaze, as shell fragments showered down. Several of the buildings at Boys Town, widely known home for boys, were struck by fragments of flying metal.

The explosions began about 45 minutes after the collision at 7:40 p. m. EST and it was more than three hours before firemen could reach the vehicles and recover three charred bodies.

Chinese on Formosa Celebrate Independence

TAIPEH, Formosa (AP)—Nationalist China celebrated its double tenth independence day today with a flag-starred show of its reviving military power.

The crack 52nd Army and other military units goose-stepped in review before President Chiang Kai-Shek and other Nationalist and foreign officials this morning.

American-built jets delivered to the Nationalist air force earlier this year roared overhead.

Those present on the reviewing stand included a group of 14 Pentagon officers headed by Maj. Gen. F. H. Lanahen, and Wayne E. Richards, national commander of the Veterans of Foreign Wars.

15 Autos Pile Up On Foggy Highway

ELIZABETH, N. J. (AP)—Fifteen cars smashed end-to-end last night injuring 17 persons in another crash on the smogbound portion of the New Jersey Turnpike here.

Later, fog rolled in over the superhighway and it was closed early today to all traffic for a distance of about 50 miles.

Last night's crash occurred near the Newark border where smoke from garbage dump fires blows across the highway. State police said several cars stopped on the highway and were rammed by others coming up from behind in the northbound lane.

Four cars caught fire and three of them were destroyed by the flames.

21 KILLED IN CRASH

SANTIAGO, Chile (AP) — Twenty one persons were killed and 25 others seriously injured last night in a collision between a crowded bus and a passenger train near the city of Linares, an official announcement said. The bus was completely wrecked and two of the train's cars were overturned.

Prospect Youth's Steer Named Grand Champion

Gene Isler of the Prospect 4-H Club walked off with top honors at Friday's sixth annual Marion County Junior Steer Show and Sale. The boy's light Shorthorn took first prize as grand champion steer of the show, and brought the top price in the subsequent sale.

Merle Wise, of Wise's Super Market, bid $70 per hundred weight for the 854 pound steer exhibited by Isler. The total price was $597.80. The show and sale was held at the Marion Producers Livestock Association Yards.

Isler also took runner-up in the showmanship contest held in the afternoon. He placed second behind Jim Weist of the LaRue FFA Chapter.

Carl Murphy of the Meeker 4-H Club had the reserve champion of the show. His steer also brought a fancy price of $432.99 as Howard Spear of Spear's Wholesale Meat Producers in Marion bid $51 per hundredweight for the 849 pound light Angus.

Totals for the sale released this morning by Elwood Parrott of the Agricultural Extension Service show that 111 animals, not including the grand and reserve champions, brought an average price of $27,705 per hundredweight. These animals weighted a total of 110,583 pounds, an average of 996 pounds apiece.

Buyers spent $30,637.20 for the 111 animals not including the grand and reserve champs. Albers

Action on Taft Successor Is Asked in Suit

Herbert Wants Court Order Demanding New Senator Be Appointed

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—A move aimed at forcing Gov. Frank J. Lausche to appoint a successor to the late Sen. Robert A. Taft will be heard by the Ohio Supreme Court at 11:30 a. m. Tuesday.

This was decided today after Paul M. Herbert, Columbus attorney and former Republican lieutenant governor, asked the court for a temporary writ.

Such a writ would order Gov. Lausche to either appoint a successor on a certain date or show cause why he should not do so.

Wants Appointment Now

In an action yesterday, Herbert asked the court to order Lausche to make the apointment "forthwith."

When Herbert appeared in the Supreme Court today he was told the court felt that in a matter of "his importance" the entire court should hear the attorney's application for the writ asking that a deadline be set for the apointment. Not all members of the court were present today.

Lausche told a reporter he would make the appointment without regard to Herbert's suit "in reasonable time before the next session of Congress." Congress is expected to convene next January.

Taft, Ohio's senior senator and Republican majority leader, died July 31. Herbert claims Ohio law requires the governor to appoint a successor immediately. He said Lausche's delay denied the new senator "the opportunity to familiarize himself with the profound and important duties of a United States senators in these difficult and critical times. . ."

Herbert accused Lausche of delaying "soley for political advantage . . . by reason of widespread publicity. . ."

Regrets Actions

In his statement to a reporter, Lausche said:

"Mr. Paul Herbert of course has the legal right to file the suit. I regret that he did not see fit to talk to me before the action was instituted. . .

"I wonder if Mr. Herbert has given consideration to the recent statement by Sen. John W. Bricker (Ohio Republican) that inasmuch as Congress was not in session there was no pressing need for an immediate appointment."

Lausche's silence has resulted in much speculation, involving almost every prominent Democrat in the state and some Republicans. Most often mentioned in recent conjecture is Democratic Mayor Thomas Burke of Cleveland, who did not run for re-election, saying he wanted to return to private law practice.

In Cleveland's municipal primary, State Sen. Anthony Celebrezze, backed by Lausche, won the Dem-

Ike To Appear At Ohio College

Will Be in Defiance For Program Thursday

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower will make a short trip next week, to a Republican-sponsored celebration of his 63rd birthday, and soon afterward start a long tour.

Tuesday afternoon the President and Mrs. Eisenhower, with a family party, will drive to Hershey, Pa., for a fund-raising box supper arranged by the Pennsylvania party. Sales of more than 6,000 tickets at $100 each were reported.

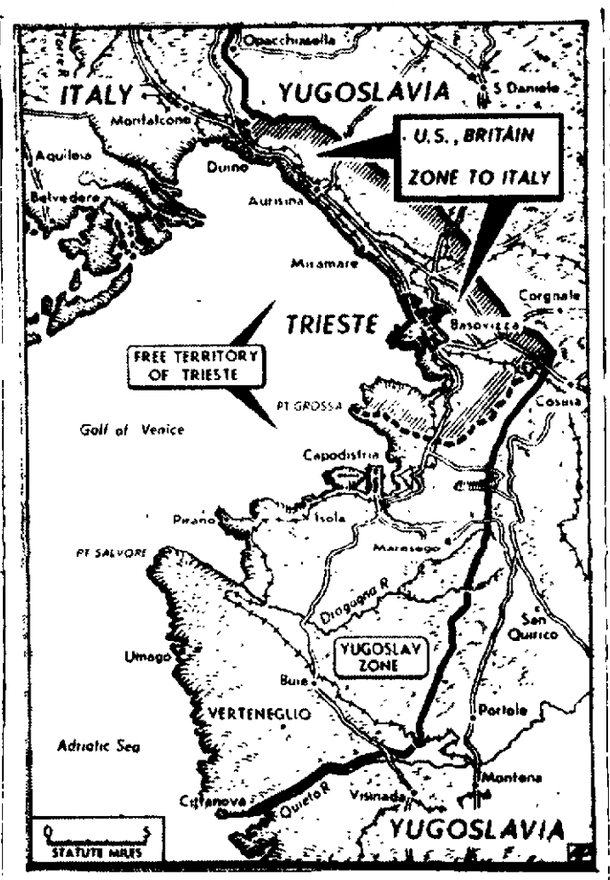
The President will fly back to Washington, where he will spend his actual birthday, Wednesday. But he leaves that night by train to keep a delayed appointment at Defiance College in Ohio.

Eisenhower will arrive at Defiance Thursday to attend the laying of the cornerstone of the new Anthony Wayne Library of American Study.

The visit had been planned for September, but the President then was flying back from Colorado and it was considered dangerous to try to land at Defiance.

The college's president, Kevin McCann, is a friend and biographer of Eisenhower.

From Defiance, Eisenhower will go to Toledo and there board a plane to continue his trip through the South and Southwest.



WHERE TRIESTE AREA TO UNDERGO CHANGE. Map locates the controversial occupation area of Trieste which the United States and Britain announced they will turn over to Italy for administration. American and British garrison troops will be withdrawn in an attempt to ease relations between Italy and Yugoslavia, which occupies the neighboring sector of the free territory of Trieste. Both countries claim the entire territory. In Belgrade, demonstrations were staged as Yugoslavs expressed their anger over the proposed change. Armed troops held back throngs from British, American and Italian embassies damaged by stones thrown by demonstrators.

Discrepancies Studied

Kidnaping Investigation Speeded by Authorities

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Methodical investigation of all facets of the Greenlease kidnap - slaying was pushed today by authorities seeking to clear up discrepancies in stories told by the boy's admitted abductors.

Carl Austin Hall, 34, who planned the kidnaping, and Bonnie Brown Heady, 41-year-old divorcee who took Bobby Greenlease, 6, from his private school, were to be brought here from St. Louis where they were arrested Wednesday.

Trip Details Secret

Time of the trip and the method of transportation were kept secret by federal authorities. Officials in St. Louis said details of the transfer were being withheld for security reasons.

FBI agents said last night they would continue to question the pair after their arrival in Kansas City in an effort to fit together the missing pieces in the case.

Still unaccounted for is $300,000, half the ransom paid by Bobby's 71 - year - old father, Robert C. Greenlease, wealthy Kansas City automobile dealer. Hall, who had some $29,000 in his possession when arrested, has said he doesn't know what happened to the remainder of the money.

Ex-Convict Sought

Still being closely checked is the 37-year-old ex-convict, named by Hall as his accomplice in the kidnaping. Hall has blamed the slaying on the missing man, saying he turned Bobby over to him a short time after the child was taken from his school. But authorities have raised doubts that Marsh even was involved in the plot.

Still being closely checked in the station wagon in which Hall and Mrs. Heady drove to St. Joseph, Mo., after the kidnaping. The FBI declined to comment on what clues it might have discovered in the vehicle, which was found abandoned in north Kansas City.

Still unexplained is a letter the St. Louis cab driver who led police to Hall said he and Sandy

Storm Floods Florida, Heads Out to Atlantic

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — The eighth tropical storm of the season whirled northeastward over the Atlantic today after slashing across the Florida peninsula with mile-a-minute winds and heavy rains which added to the flood danger in some areas.

The storm formed in the Gulf of Mexico and swept over the state in a path about 10 miles wide and 150 miles long from Punta Gorda on the west coast to Vero Beach on the Atlantic side.

Much of the state already was waterlogged and rain from the tropical disturbance brought a threat of critical floods in some sections.

At Orlando, Sen. George Smathers (D-Fla) wired President Eisenhower that Florida was "suffering from what many say is the worst flood condition in 50 years."

Sixteen major highways were closed to traffic because they were underwater or pocked with washouts.

Cab Driver Thought Hall Was Good-Time Charley

ST. LOUIS (AP)—"I first thought I had a 'good-time Charley,' then I knew I had something worse," the cab driver who tipped police to Carl Austin Hall, said.

John Hager, 39, spent nearly two days driving for and drinking with the man charged with the kidnap-slaying of 6-year-old Bobby Greenlease of Kansas City.

When Hager did realize the man, known only to him as Steve, was "hot," he thought he had a bank robber. He then tipped off Police Lt. Louis Shoulders who arrested Hall Tuesday night.

Hager's identity was a closely guarded secret until last night. After Hager was questioned extensively by FBI agents, Globe-Democrat reporter Ted Schafers located and interviewed him.

Hager will get $1,500 in rewards, a local official of the AFL Teamsters Union announced. Hager, a driver for the Ace Cab Co. will get $500 from his firm, $500 from his Teamsters' Local 405, and another $500 from Dave Beck, international president of the union.

The cab driver told of meeting Hall in front of a downtown hotel, getting him a date, carrying two heavy suitcases, in which about half of the $600,000 Greenlease ransom money was found, at least five times, and finally getting scared because of Hall's actions.

Monday afternoon "Another cab driver drove up and asked me if I could get his fare a girl," Hager

Raps Trieste Decision by U.S., Britain

Yugoslav Leader Says He'll Consider Italian Entry an 'Aggression'

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia (AP)—President Tito sent his toughly-trained troops marching up to the Italian frontier today and served blunt notice that Yugoslavia would consider entry of Italian forces into Zone A of the Free Territory of Trieste "an act of aggression."

In a fiery speech at the southern Serbian textile city of Leskovac, Tito told a huge throng "We have decided to protect our rights in the spirit of the United Nations, which also include the right to use armed force."

"The peoples of Yugoslavia in their demonstrations asked that our army be sent to Zone B and I may declare that units of the Yugoslav army have already entered into Zone B."

Follows U. S.-British Decision

Tito spoke just two days after Britain and the United States announced their decision to withdraw their occupation troops from Zone A and turn its administration over to Italy. The decision touched off a wave of angry protest demonstrations in Yugoslavia. That continued today.

Tito warned bluntly that Yugoslavia could not accept the "unilateral act by the governments of the United States and Britain" as an accomplished fact.

Under the Italian peace treaty of 1947, the Free Territory of Trieste was split into two zones. Zone A, including the strategic port city of Trieste, was placed under Anglo - American control. Zone B, largely vineyards and farmlands, was turned over to Yugoslav occupation.

Proposes New Solution

Tito proposed today a new "solution" for the dynamite - laden Trieste problem which has disrupted relations between this country and Italy for the past seven years:

"First of all, to leave this question for some time. Further, to create two autonomous units, namely the Zone B with the whole hinterland of Trieste, which is predominantly inhabited by the Slovene people, as one autonomous unit under the sovereighty of Yugoslavia for 10 or more years.

Italy Demands Plebiscite

"Secondly, that Trieste (city) itself become a separate unit with autonomous rights under the sovereignty of Italy, with the provision that neither side has the right to effect denationalization," meaning the forcible removal of minority poulations.

Previously, Tito had called for internationalization of Trieste itself with Yugoslavia acquiring the surrounding area in the free terri-

Britain Rejects Yugoslav Claim Of 'Aggression'

LONDON (AP) — Britain officially rejected today Yugoslav President Tito's claim that Italy would be committing "aggression" by sending troops into Zone A of the Trieste free territory.

The foreign office, in a preliminary comment on the Yugoslav leader's speech at Leskovac, said: "It is difficult to see how an act of aggression could be committed by the movement of Italian troops into territory which is not Yugoslav."

In Rome, an Italian ministry of defense spokesman said no plans have yet been made to move Italian troops into Zone A. There was no comment on the Yugoslav troop movements reported from Belgrade. Unofficially, Rome military sources commented that the Yugoslav zone normally is well garrisoned.

Lord, With Glowing Heart I'd Praise Thee

"Thine hand, fair little maiden, let me see.
How run the mystic lines of destiny . . .

So began a juvenile poem Francis Scott Key wrote on the back of a hymn book for a little 9-year-old girl who sat on his knee.

"One of the best American types" is what some historians call the author of our national anthem. Others define him as "The pure souled patriot." But whatever the epigram, all agree that Francis Scott Key was of sterling character, soft-spoken, highly cultured, of excellent manners, courteous, tactful, an able lawyer and, above all, a Christian gentleman.

Perhaps that's why, a century and a quarter ago, President Andrew Jackson singled out Key from all the lawyers in America and sent him to Tuscaloosa, Ala., to work out an agreement between the federal government and the state in a controversy that had arisen over disputed Indian lands.

On the last night of his stay at Gov. Gayle's mansion in Tuscaloosa—then the state capitol—the 53-year-old Key held little Sarah Ann Gayle on his knee and wrote poetry for her. Turning through the songbook on which the lawyer-poet had been writing, the little girl saw Key's name over a hymn and, at her request, he sang it for her.

Everybody knows that Francis Scott Key wrote "The Star-Spangled Banner." But not everybody knows that the author of our national anthem was also a prolific writer of church hymns. We give here the one he sang for little Sarah Ann Gayle. He wrote it in 1817, just three years after he walked the deck of a British man-of-war, on which he was detained, and wrote "The Star-Spangled Banner" on the back of a letter.

Indeed fitting that our national anthem should have been written by a man of such character as to write poetry for a little girl . . . and Christian hymns like this:

Lord, with glowing heart I'd praise Thee,
For the bliss Thy love bestows;
For the pardoning grace that saves me,
And the peace that from it flows.

—Praise, my soul, the God that sought thee,
Wretched wanderer, far astray;
Found thee lost, and kindly brought thee,
From the paths of death away.

Praise, with love's devoutest feeling,
Him who saw thy guilt-born fear;
And, the light of hope revealing,
Bade the blood-stained cross appear.

Let Thy grace, my soul's chief treasure,
Love's pure flame within me raise;
And, since words can never measure,
Let my life show forth Thy praise.

Altars in Life

A Sermonette

By REV. FREDERICK W. LEECH
Rector of St. Paul's Episcopal Church

When God became Man, He took on the ordinary humanity of people like us; He walked and worked among ordinary, everyday people, doing simple everyday things. From a heavenly glory we cannot imagine, Jesus came to the poverty and desperation of our world, bringing with Him some of that glory. After the crucifixion. He ascended from this world, taking with Him something of our humanity and lifting it into heavenly places. His coming into common life, and lifting it into the Divine has ever been a part and parcel of His work among men. This is the tremendous, life-giving principle of Christianity. Our common, everyday life is important, and it is touched with the Divine.

We all need to realize this. All our life belongs to God; it just a Sunday hourly compartment of it.

ONE OF THE COMMON, everyday things Jesus used when He was on earth, was a common, ordinary dining room table. This one was in an upper room in Jerusalem. At this ordinary table Jesus gave us the Lord's Supper. "Do this in memory of me," He said. It was a plain thing of everyday use, but Jesus touched it with the Divine. It became then the prototype of all altars or holy tables that have been used in Christian Churches ever since.

There are other tables than this great one of the Divine Sacrifice in which we should find reminders of this great life giving principle of Christianity. Jesus, who comes to us at our altars and holy tables, wants us to use other tables also as a means by which He may come more fully into His world.

THERE IS A table called a work bench. It too is an altar, a holy table. It should be the place where we offer our handiwork to God. There have been special emergency services of worship held, where a work bench was the altar. After the service, it went back to being a work bench; a table which held the Body and Blood of the Lord again felt the hammer blows of tools of men making and repairing useful objects.

Jesus was a carpenter. Jesus loves all life, and all that helps to make life better, so He loves all good handiwork. A table spattered with paint, or dusty with sawdust, or black with grease from pipes or metal would find His hands willing to work at it if its products served human need.

THREE TIMES A DAY, busy hands prepare food for the table, called a dining room table, in order that the family may have nourishment for the body. Sometimes such routines of life lose their inspiration, but surely every Christian family meal is sacramental "All things come of Thee, O Lord." Yet many forget to return thanks for the fruits of God's earth. Are our meetings at our eating tables bad-mannered, wrangling, and concerned just with eating? As we eat each day we should look up to God with thanks, and across to each other with love, so that these functional tables may also be sacramental; tables that are alters of life.

There is a table called an operating table; it too must be an altar. There a sick human body lies unconscious before the surgeon, waiting the reverent use of his healing skill. Most doctors are aware of the infinite mystery of human life, and in some way pray, as they seek to minister to the sick. This too is a holy table, serving human need.

MANY OF US work at tables called counters. Across them pass materials that make our clothing, the foods that feed our bodies, the many things we need and use. Is there anything holy in counters loaded with vegetables or shirts or hardware or books or flowers? If at that counter there is someone who loves his work, and loves to serve people in honest weight and measure and price, it is like an altar.

Our lives are busy at many altars. Our desks, our drawing boards, our stoves, or wherever we do our work; all these can be altars. God wants to help the person who works at these as much as He wants to help the minister as he speaks in the pulpit. Unless we make our work benches, our drawing boards, our desks, our tables, our counters sacramental with God's presence, we create monsters that destroy us.

WE COME INTO church from the world to be forgiven and cleansed and uplifted; to draw near to our Lord at His Altar and to share His life and spirit as He commanded us to do Then we must take what God gives us in the church, out again, into the world, making all our life and work an offering to Him; a sacrifice on some of the many everyday altars of our lives.

Everything we have to do in this life can be, and must be, tinged with Divine meaning and purpose. This is what Jesus came into the world to show us. Everything and every act must be touched with the radiance of His glory, until it all praises and glorifies God, in order, as St. Paul said it, "that God may be all in all," or as it is said in the new translation of the Bible, "that God may be everything to everyone" As we learn to look at life in this spirit we will find altars in life everywhere.

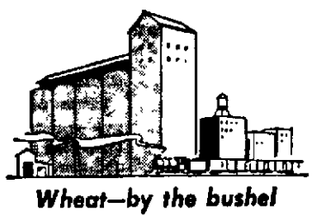
MEMO TO ADVERTISERS

Coal—by the ton

There are standards for advertising, too!

Lumber—by the foot



Wheat—by the bushel

Land—by the acre

Gasoline—by the gallon

What a fix we'd all be in without those standards of measurement for the goods you buy and sell. Imagine the confusion, waste and doubt in business transactions if we didn't have accepted standards of weights and measures—known values.

We believe it is just as necessary for us to tell you what you get for your advertising dollars, in terms of known circulation value, as it is for you to do business with your customers on the basis of recognized standards. That's why this newspaper is a member of the Audit Bureau of Circulations.

WHAT IS THE A.B.C.? The Bureau is a cooperative and nonprofit association of 3450 publishers, advertising agencies and advertisers in the United States and Canada. Organized in 1914, A.B.C. brought order out of advertising chaos by establishing a definition for paid circulation, rules and standards for measuring, auditing and reporting the circulations of newspapers and periodicals.

WHAT A.B.C. DOES FOR YOU. At regular intervals one of the Bureau's large staff of experienced circulation auditors comes to our office and makes a thorough audit of our circulation records. He has access to all of our books and records to obtain the FACTS that tell you what you get for your money when you advertise in this newspaper.

WHAT A.B.C. REPORTS TELL YOU. The circulation FACTS obtained by the A.B.C. auditor are condensed in easy to read A.B.C. reports which tell you: How much circulation we have; where the circulation goes; how it was sold and many other FACTS about the audience we provide for your sales messages. Make your advertising investments on the basis of this audited information. Ask for a copy of our A.B.C. report.

Confident Living

By NORMAN VINCENT PEALE

The Art of Understanding Yourself

A Cornell University professor of medicine recently told an audience of Texas doctors that more women are getting ulcers because they are going out and competing with men professionally instead of staying home and having babies. But, on the other hand, women who stay at home have their problems, too, and, all things considered, the problems of women are not too far removed from those of men.

DR. PEALE

Some months ago, a young woman consulted me. She was handsome and well-dressed, but her expression was most unpleasant. It seemed to be a gloomy outward reflection of her inward thoughts.

"I've listened to you speak," she said. "Do you really mean that if a person's joints ache, he is doing something wrong?"

"Oh, no," I protested. "I said nothing of the kind. I did say that many people who do wrong ache in their joints."

"You also said," she went on, "that, if a person's stomach hurts, he isn't living the right kind of life."

"No," I repeated, "I did not say that. I said a great many people who are not living the right kind of life have pains in the stomach."

"Well," she said, "I have such pains; yet I lead an upright life. And I'm not happy at all."

OUR FURTHER conversation brought out that, at 33, she was still living with her parents, who probably dominated her over much and upon whom she seemed quite dependent. She told me that they wouldn't permit her to go out very often because they wanted her to stay home with them.

"Do you love them devotedly?" I asked her.

"Certainly," she answered, a bit too sharply.

"You love them and you hate them, too. Isn't that it?"

"No," she exclaimed with a shocked expression. "I don't hate them. That would be wrong."

I explained to her that curious mixture of love and hate in each of us, known to the psychologists as ambivalence. You may love and hate at the same time. But your hate produces a feeling of guilt which results in a conflict of emotions. This conflict within you can actually produce symptoms of physical distress.

I GAVE HER some advice:

"You might as well admit that you resent your parents because they dominate you. Face this fact honestly. Then learn to think of them as loving but mistaken people who keep treating you as a child after you have grown up. Be firm with them, in a kindly way. But free yourself from this unhealthy situation by understanding yourself and them."

She learned to cast off infantilism and lead a normal life. I saw her again recently. "My pains are almost gone," she told me, "and I've reached an understanding with my parents. We get along much better now. I'm going out often with a fine young man and I am very happy." I could tell from her glowing face that romance had entered her life.

When the hate-guilt thought pattern cleared up, the physical manifestations ended. Her improved condition grew out of her new understanding of herself and her forceful dealing with her problem.

"WHY ART THOU cast down, O my soul? and why art thou disquieted in me?" asks the Bible. Such castdown feelings are often present due to an unclean mess within you — sin, worry, anxiety, hatred. But, with common sense and faith, you can find self-understanding and clean all this out of your mind.

The art of understanding yourself is clearly outlined in the pages of your Bible. It tells you how to overcome hatred and resentment, how to be cleansed, how to obtain vital health in body, mind and spirit. Learn its principles for, as a great philosopher said, "Self-understanding is the beginning of knowledge"—and, we might add, the beginning of happiness as well.

300,000 Farmers in France Plan Protest on Fall in Prices

PARIS (AP)—Premier Joseph Laniel's right-center government, fresh from victory over left wing opponents of its economic program, worked feverishly today to quiet angry farm protests against falling prices.

More than 300,000 farmers in the southwest third of the nation have announced, they will barricade highways Monday to call attention to their demands for legislation to prop livestock prices. They also want some marketing reforms to reduce the number of middlemen.

Trouble for Government

The farm protests posed the threat of serious parliamentary trouble for the government. Peasant party deputies, who form a part of Laniel's coalition in the Assembly, have indicated they may try to force a debate on the Cabinet's agricultural policies when the National Assembly meets Tuesday.

The 14-week-old government handily survived the first parliamentary attacks mounted on it yesterday when the Assembly threw out both a Communist and a Socialist motion criticizing Laniel's economic policies.

The lawmakers had convened a week ahead of schedule especially to consider the Cabinet's economic and labor program, target of last August's mass strikes which disrupted the nation's economy.

Laniel held two long conferences with farm leaders yesterday in hopes of staving off the scheduled demonstrations.

The Premier has found himself in hot water with the farmers principally because of a 30 to 40 per cent drop in the price of cattle during the past year.

The angry growers have said they will barricade most of the roads in their areas beginning at 8 a. m. (2 a. m. EST) Monday, letting only doctors, midwives and certain security personnel through.

IT SEEMS ONLY 80 YEARS AGO to these centenarians when things were really tough. Then they were western pioneers, but now they are picturesque "old timers" celebrating in Monrovia, Calif., the 100th birthday of Manuel Garcia (right). Interested in the reminiscences of this mere stripling is Juan Marron, who reached the century mark six months ago. Seventy of Garcia's descendants attended the party.

THE MARION CEMETERY

1858 — 1953

What Exactly Is a Memory Garden?

A Memory Garden is an individualized cemetery section that combines art, religion, sacred music and the beauties of nature.

Out on the west coast, about forty years ago, some thoughtful men conceived the idea that people might like a cemetery better if it looked more like a park than a cemetery. So there was created in California a cemetery without tombstones . . . and people liked it. So much so, that hundreds of Memorial Parks sprang up all over the country. Today ninety percent of all new cemetery developments is in accordance with the Garden Plan. In place of the familiar graveyard, there is landscaped loveliness, dedicated to the Glory of God, and for the consolation and peace of those visiting loved ones at rest. Such a place is Chapel Heights Memory Gardens — visit us soon and see for yourself.

Vivian Blaine Dyed for Success

Actress Tells How To Care for Hair

By JUDITH SIMONS

LONDON—(NANA)—"When your hair is right you feel right all over."

That is a beauty slogan of Vivian Blaine, ash-blonde star of a big American musical show "Guys and Dolls," which is playing in London.

Yet Vivian has taken risks with her hair which would make most girls flinch!

She has, literally, dyed for success.

Her hair has been a different color in almost every part she's played.

Vivian, the highest-paid female star in any production ever seen in London, tells her hair story.

"I was born an ash blonde—what we Americans call a 'towhead' — and by the time I was 16 I found I had to help nature along a little.

"The real fun started when I came to Hollywood from New York. They were making the film 'Greenwich Village,' and originally wanted Alice Faye or Betty Grable, but both were expecting babies at the time.

"I WAS CHOSEN, and it was decided that, to make a change, I should be a redhead. They made me a nice, warm shade of auburn.

"After that came the films 'Something for the Boys' and 'Nob Hill' —and all the time my hair was getting redder and redder.

"Then, for 'State Fair,' it was a really fire-engine red!

"That blazing hair made me look thinner. Funny how a change of color can alter facial contours. I looked harder, more angular."

But soon Hollywood sent Vivian back to the hairdressers to turn her blonde again-for the film "Three Little Girls in Blue."

"That took a year off my life. I really mean it," she says. "The red dye just would not come out—because I had had a cold perm, and the color was quite fast.

"I sometimes spent eight hours at a stretch at the beauty parlor, regularly, four days a week. After four weeks of striving my hair did change color. It became shocking pink!"

VIVIAN PLAYED her part in "Three Little Girls in Blue" with the aid of wigs and switches.

In private life she kept a sequin scarf or turban on her head. Soon she had grown enough of her own blonde hair to have the pink mass cut off.

"I can boast to have had the first feather cut in Hollywood. Or you might call it a crew cut. It was not exactly fashionable-1945, remember."

Vivian has been a brunette only once, and that was a hairdresser's mistake.

For her part as a night-club singer in "Guys and Dolls" her hair is "A little lighter than normal," but a little darker than when she played the role in New York.

VIVIAN ALWAYS has dressed impeccably to suit her changing appearance. She had a gold plaque from the Fashion artists of America as the best-dressed woman of the theatre.

"Blonde hair is a headlight, and everything else must be toned down. If a blonde wears red, she must have something like touches of white to take away the impact. That makes her not hotsy-totsy, but demure. And redheads must be even more careful than blondes."

Because of the various attacks on it, Vivian, is most thorough in her hair care.

She uses a rubber comb, so that the hair ends don't split.

Another way to keep hair from breaking, she advises, is to use a bristle brush and follow the line of the hair as you use it—"Don't just plow through."

A girl with dyed hair, Vivian affirms, should visit the hair dresser once in a while to make sure her scalp is healthy.

AN IMPORTANT MESSAGE FROM THE UNITED APPEALS OF MARION COUNTY

The 1954 United Appeals Drive starts Monday at the Kick-off Breakfast, 8 A.M., in the new YMCA. Here's our chance to pull together as a community that knows how to take care of itself, as a city and county we can be proud to live in. No matter how you give — at home, at your office or store, through payroll savings at the plant — your dollars will work, through the American Red Cross, American Cancer Society, American Heart Association, and ten Red Feather Agencies of the Community Chest, to make Marion a better, happier place to live, work, and play.

Be an important part of the Drive this year. Don't let the other man carry the burden alone . . . Marion needs YOU, too!

Performance of Comet Not So Flashy This Year

ALBUQUERQUE (AP) — The cosmos staged a not-quite-so-flashy repeat performance last night.

Earth whirled through the tail of a comet, Giacobini's, as it does every six years, but the meteorite shower—the debris left by the disintegrating comet—wasn't up to par.

Dr Lincoln La Paz, director of New Mexico University's Institute of Meteoritics, the only one in the Western world, said he was mildly disappointed.

COME ON, THE SKI'NG'S FINE. Lucy Hannah (left) and Polly Cole start up one of the ski trials at Cannon Mountain, Franconia, N. H., for their first schuss on the first snow of the season. Ten inches of the white stuff fell and there still was a flurry when this picture was made. Trees in background are still bright with fall colors and first warm sun was expected to cause snow to vanish on mountains for another month.

Police Report More Damage By Pranksters

Overly-eager Halloweeners were again active in Marion last night, police reported today.

Mable E. Wheatley of 227 W. Church St. called police this morning and reported Halloweeners evidently took an antique chair from her porch sometime last night.

Police also received two reports this morning of clothes lines being cut down at houses on Garden St.

Meanwhile, Police Chief Tom Coon said that two nine-year-old boys were taken into custody yesterday in connection with a Halloween prank Wednesday night in which 28 light bulbs at Lincoln-Mercury used car lot on W. Center St. were broken out. Coon said one of the boys is being held in the Marion County Detention Home and the other is in custody of his parents.

Chief Coon again warned that Halloween pranks that result in property destruction absolutely will not be tolerated in Marion this year. Police will investigate every case where property damage results and will take appropriate action against those responsible, he said.

Everybody's an Expert

It is easy to sympathize with President Eisenhower in the trouble he is having about too many statements on atomic warfare in his official family.

It was easy to sympathize with Harry Truman on the same problem when he was president. Everybody's an expert on atomic warfare, and official "experts" are the worst of all.

No one knows anything about the atomic war that may start some day. There is not only the handicap of Communist secrecy but the handicap of ignorance.

Even the experts who are assumed to know all there is to know about various details of nuclear fission talk at cross purposes when they get out of their fields of specialty.

Moreover, government officials who are tempted to talk — and love to be coaxed—are under the handicap of the "bureaucratic bumbles." They bumble darkly about things of which they know nothing factual and indulge in the fatuous official practice of making hush-hush secrets of things which every bright child in the streets knows forward and backward.

Nuclear fission, in the sense of being something in the care of officialdom, is subject to the rule that the only people ever thrown off the track by official secrecy are taxpayers.

The foreign enemy always knows everything he needs to know, but the old folks at home are kept in blinders.

President Eisenhower may be able to stop some of the nonsensical confusion about atomic warfare. But he won't stop all of it, because it's human nature for officials to pop off.

But pending a higher rate of discipline in the ranks of the bureaucratic bunglers, an ordinary taxpayer can piece together the shape of one salient fact.

The Russians, who fooled the Germans by turning up with tanks, planes and workable guns at the outset of World War II, have fooled the atomic scientists by turning up with proof that they can produce atomic explosions second to none.

Those of us who doubted that U.S. secrecy was going to keep the Russians in the dark are not surprised by this. If it isn't spilling a vital secret to say so, the people of the United States are not as confused as their government seems to be.

Men in the Middle

The "neutrals" who went to Korea to preside over the knotty problem of prisoner disposal must wish now they had stayed home.

There is no place for neutrals in struggles between irreconcilable factions. Everything they do or do not do is used against them as evidence of partisanship. They are dragged into the argument against their will.

It will take a miracle to avert large-scale bloodshed among the Indians who have been to release the prisoners without any further guarding the Korean prisoners. A move is afoot pal'aver. It has been disclosed by the commander of the Indians that they will not use force. But if they must use force thereafter to bring about their own escape from a situation which has grown hopeless, they will be signing their own death warrants.

They are not the only men in the middle in Korea, either. Every outsider who lingers in that strife-torn country is wearing out his welcome with one side or the other. The United Nations troops are in the middle.

There have been no victors, only losers, in the bitter factionalism which has cheated the Koreans out of the unity they dramed of achieving. There will be no neutrals either, in the long run.

Asia will learn what Europe has learned in two wars that being hated equally in a war is as impossible as to be admired equally.

Success Story

This story is borrowed from the business pages of The New York Times. It is about one of the world's famous hotels, the Waldorf-Astoria in New York City.

Specifically, it is about the retirement a year in advance of the last remaining 5 per cent debentures worth 11 million dollars issued in 1934 when the hotel emerged from reorganization. Erected in 1931, it had run into grave financial trouble immediately — so grave that its debentures were selling for two cents on the dollar as recently as the early 40's. Then something happened.

The United States became the arsenal of democracy and the breadbasket of freedom. "The Waldorf - Astoria's lean days disappeared quickly once the World War II allies began sending their delegations to this country, with Uncle Sam picking up the tab," reports The New York Times. "By 1934 four out of every five rooms were taken, and for a year or so after the war, with various missions of the United Nations frequent visitors, a night's lodging in the Waldorf - Astoria became as hard to buy as a ticket to a hit show on Broadway." The Waldorf-Astoria had ceased to be a financial headache, thanks to the fact New York City had become the main point of call for delegations arriving in this country to ask for foreign aid.

The Moral: There is more to foreign aid than meets the ordinary taxpayer's eye.

H-Bomb Hysteria

By David Lawrence

American Security Depends on Inventive Genius

Fear of war by one side has never been an insurance against the attitude of an aggressor who misconstrues fear for cowardice. The hysteria about the H-bomb exhibited mostly in America —and, strangely enough, not so much by Europeans closer to Soviet Russia — is in part being used in this country as a means of encouraging more spending for defense.

Also in part it is being employed as a means of encouraging a movement to appease Soviet Russia by more and more "negotiation," the clamor for which inevitably will be regarded in Moscow as a sign of weakness.

President Eisenhower has been urged to "clarify" the alleged confusion. Sen. Kefauver jumped into the fray by pointing out that different persons high in the administration had contradictory concepts about the threat from the H-bomb.

The President promptly put the whole thing in perspective in his press conference — the Russians have the capability of making H-bombs and can develop means of delivering them.

Having said this, he declared that it is anybody's guess—Charles E. Wilson's or anybody else's — as to when Soviet Russia might be able to deliver not one H-bomb but quantities but he doesn't think the threat is on our doorstep at this time.

Then there is the well-calculated and rather mysterious movement, supposedly from scientific circles, asking that more and more data be made available to the public about the H-bombs.

Soviet Russia, of course, wants to know more — and especially to get confirmation as to whether her Communist spies have made accurate reports about American production of atomic weapons.

Mr. Eisenhower hasn't the slightest intention of being duped by well-meaning scientists or Communist sympathizers or anybody else into giving away facts that ought to be kept secret. He has been advised that everything that should be known has been made known and that there is no more reason to tell how many bombs we have than how many rounds of ammunition we have at the front each day during a war.

The most important fact to be borne in mind by the public is that America now is ahead of Soviet Russia in atomic developments and that any sudden attack on us by the Communists will be met by the most destructive retaliation known to man.

Maybe it is the people of Soviet Russia who should begin to worry about the danger to them from their own gangster government in Moscow which might dare to launch an atomic attack on America.

As for producing a pacifist-minded nation which grows so fearful of war as to offer a craven compromise or surrender of basic principle, this isn't likely to happen.

Mere fear of war doesn't prevent war. If it did, World War II would never have been fought. For here is a passage from a speech by President Wilson at Denver, Colorado, in September 1919 — after the close of World War I— as he was arguing for American entry into the League of Nations:

"Stop for a moment to think about the next war, if there should be one. I do not hesitate to say that the war we have just been through, though it was shot through with terror of every kind, is not to be compared with the war we would have to face next time.

"There were destructive gases, there were methods of explosive destruction unheard of even during this war, which were just ready for use when the war ended—great projectiles that guided themselves and shot into the heavens, went for a hundred miles and more and then burst tons of explosives upon helpless cities, something to which the guns with which the Germans bombarded Paris from a distance were not comparable.

"What the Germans used were toys as compared with what would be used in the next war. Ask any soldier if he wants to go through a hell like that agian. The soldiers know what the next war would be.

"They know what the inventions were that were just about to be used for the absolute destruction of mankind."

There was a near panic during World War I as the submarine nearly starved out Britain. But in the end American inventive genius came to the rescue. The sound detector and other anti-submarine devices overcame the undersea-boat attack.

Inventive genius some day will develop means of interception of bombers — and there has been substantial progress already in that direction.

British Show Off A-Bomb in Film

By Michael Amrine

Increasing British resentment over reluctance of the United States to share atomic information with her ally on a partnership basis seems to be indicated by the remarks of Sir Roger Makins, British ambassador, at a private showing recently of Britain's atomic-bomb motion picture.

"Operation Hurricane," an excellent documentary of the preparations and actual firing of Britain's first atomic bomb, off Montebello Island, near Australia, last October 3, will be shown through the U.S., in commercial and educational outlets.

The British scheduled the film to open their regular showings of British documentaries, a series of programs they have run for several years. Ordinarily the films concern tours of Scottish castles or sheep farming in Wales, and an audience of movie students and educators interested in films for schools turns out.

For this showing the embassy sent a more or less routine letter to the Atomic Energy Commission, inviting them to send a list of names for the invitation-only affair. It turned out that scientists, engineers, and top officials of the commission were so interested in what Great Britain had been able to do without any help from us that the commission sent back a list of 650 names.

The hall in which the showings are held has a capacity of only 600, and so two showings were scheduled, and the ambassador himself showed up to make a few gentle but pertinent remarks at the premiere.

He presented a copy of the film to an official of the AEC, and made the enigmatic remark that "It will be easier for me to give it to you than for you to give it back!"

No one knows whether this was meant as a pointed reminder of commission policies, whereby anyone who takes a package or a newspaper into the commission has to register it with great care or he will not be permitted to take it out.

Winston Churchill during the war complained in letters to Harry Hopkins that information British scientists had given the U.S. had led to large projects toward the making of the bomb — and yet the British could not find out what had been developed from their information.

Makins, in presenting the film, reminded the audience that the atomic-bomb project during the war was a "joiflt effort." He did not say so, but many of his hearers knew that Roosevelt and Churchill at the Quebec conference of 1943 had agreed that all atomic information was to be shared from that time forward.

The ambassador said that legislation at the end of the war (the McMahon Atomic Energy Act) had ended that partnership, and added: "The film you are about to see shows what we had to do all on our own — and to our great regret, I may say — from our own resources."

The film did not reveal a great deal not previously given out in reports to Parliament, but it did make obvious that the British bomb, exploded in a small bay, was equal to or greater than Bikini.

It was exploded from the hold of a small ship, and thousands of tons of mud from the harbor went up with the mushroom, so that it was by far the blackest radioactive cloud ever created — or, at least, so far as has been publicized.

This meant increased radioactivity, both in the water and wherever the dirty steam from the hot cloud descended. It was also the first time that any film has shown the public some of the actual last-minute steps taken with the controls. The British use a system whereby all the control lines are in order except for one circuit, which must be closed with a special key.

Only one man has the key. One could have heard a pin drop in the audience, most of which had been close to an atomic explosion, when the scientist in the film turned the key from "safe" to "fire," and the counting of minutes and of seconds until "zero hour" came through the loudspeaker system.

Marion Bover, general manager of the commission, accepted a print of the film, and made no reference to current proposals on Capitol Hill toward changing the atomic energy act to permit fuller exchange of information. Scientists in the audience agreed that the British bomb shows they are well abreast of us in atomic developments, and they found it extremely irritating to be in the rare position of seeing an atomic film and not knowing the inside story behind it.

The British gave no indication of the actual efficiency of the bomb, and it was impossible to calculate how close observers were to it. No aerial views of the bay were given, and the film did not include what Churchill had said, that the entire ship holding the bomb simply disappeared.

It is also considered noteworthy that no advance "leak" of the test had appeared last year, nor were there any such leaks as occurred in our own hydrogen experiments, when sailors wrote home from Enwetok.

Thus the movie, which the shrewd British may have shown for just this purpose, whetted the curiosity of American atomic people to know more of what England has done, and at the same time Ambassador Makins made clear that the British are willing to trade information, but not as a little brother — only as a full partner.

Cotton Corners

By TRUMAN TWILL

Dear Nephew: This is the night we're supposed to have the big freeze, and I'm ready for it.

The milkweed pods will pop open and blanket the earth with potential milkweeds. So will the thistle pods, those other outstanding tributes to nature's master plan for survival.

I hadn't taken apart a milkweed pod for a long time until I took autumn inventory in the fields beyond the rapids in our favorite river this afternoon. When I hear people exclaim because some man-made gadget is put together cleverly, I think they must never have seen a milkweed pod.

Nature's master plan is natural selection. Out of all the myriads of milkweed seeds with their little silk parachutes attached, a few trillion will fall to earth in the right places for growth. If men started to fool with milkweeds, it wouldn't be long until there'd be no more milkweeds. That might be a good thing. I don't know. But it would illustrate what happens when fiddle - footed humans go barging in where they should stay at a respectful distance.

But how did I ever get launched on the subject of milkweeds? I was going to tell you about being ready for winter.

I have made up my mind to enjoy the first snow and all snows thereafter, up until next April, when I will feel free to complain.

Everything at the house has been made snug and tight. It is the best shape the place has been in since it was built. I finally got around to doing a few things the builders didn't know how to do.

I know what I am going to get your aunt for Christmas and have placed an order for same. The Thanksgiving turkeys are doing nicely.

There is enough fuel on hand to finish out all of this year and some to carry over into 1954. I have laid out my winter's reading project: stacked up enough wood just outside the side porch to stoke the fireplace and harvested the walnuts.

My overcoat is ready and so are my galoshes. I have enough gloves to take care of all my needs, we have new flashlight batteries and candles in the event of blizzards that might cut off the power supply. Our freezer is packed with enough supplies to last several weeks in a pinch, and we are as nearly secure as anyone can be made in these insecure times.

If it came to a showdown, I could sit here and read my books by candlelight while your old auntie belted away at the woodpile to keep me warm. Or if we had a real emergency, I could do the cooking while she bossed me around from her bed of pain.

Or the two of us could sit side by side and await the worst with equanimity if the politicians and scientists continue to run amuck. Incidentally, I saw that word spelled "amok" the other day, so I looked it up. Don't you be fooled. In our language it's "muck." I get cranky about people who try to spell things the hard way. The easy way's hard enough.

I have had a letter from our representative in higher education. There were no words misspelled. Apparently the experiment's beginning to pay off. He is becoming literate.

Split up our kindest regards among all the deserving recipients.

Medical Research Boom

By THOMAS R. HENRY

There has been a tenfold increase in the money available for medical research in the United States during the past decade—from about 18 million dollars just before the war to 181 million at present.

This is reported by Drs. Kenneth M. Endicott and Ernest M. Allen of the National Institute of Health. The greatest jump, from 18 million to 115 million, came during the war years with the emergency need for research in many medical fields.

Normally this could have been expected to drop off with the end of the emergency. Instead research has been extended and intensified.

Notable has been the increased part played by the federal government which provided only 28 million in 1946 and 76 million in 1951.

The comparable contributions from American industry were 55 million and 60 million. Contributions from all other sources, including foundations, were 32 million in 1946 and 45 in 1951.

Expenditures for medical research have increased out of proportion to the national income, the doctors report.

In 1940, for example, .02 per cent of this income was spent for this purpose. This now has been increased to .07 per cent, with probabilities of still further increase. Still, they report, the demand seems far from being satisfied.

"Rapid expansion in medical research was inevitable at the end of the war," they say. Military necessity had required the initiation of the expansion and had set in motion the increase in use of manpower, the build-up of facilities and the popular interest in academic scientists.

The general public, deeply impressed by the success of atomic research, for instance, manifested its desire to support medical research by establishing and giving generously to voluntary associations.

Doctors Endicott and Allen say, too, that "a major effect has been to stimulate research in neglected fields—particularly on some of the chronic diseases."

Descent by Bathysphere

Frisby Fozzle, our special correspondent with the Piccards in their world-breaking descent into the oceanic depths, sends us stirring details of the event in the Tyrrhenian Sea.

"We found no trace of the New York Giants, the balanced budget, any Soviet record of trustworthiness, Henry Wallace or the dollar dinner," he reports, "but otherwise the exploit was an amazing success."

"How many more descents will Professor Piccard make?" we asked.

"He will never yield until he has gone deep enough to find a trace of the 35-cent shrimp cocktail, the 25-cent haircut and a bill for $2 from a doctor for a house visit," declared Mr. Fozzle, who gave a stenographic report of the dialogue between Professor Piccard and his son Jacques during the Bathysphere trip:

Jacques — How deep are we now, father?

Professor — We must be down pretty far. I have just seen a genuine full-quart bottle, an old-fashioned glass bearing the inscription "The Largest Glass of Beer In Town For Five Cents," and floating past at this moment is what seems to be a dollar watch.

Jacques — Any trace of an unbroken international treaty?

Professor — Not so fast, my boy! We are not down that deep yet.

Jacques — I think I just saw a derby hat, a celluloid collar, a clay pipe, a mustache cup and an old newspaper bearing an advertisement reading "For Sale: Eight-room House, $5,200, easy terms."

Professor — If you did we are down deeper than I anticipated. I must warn you that at a depth of a mile, one is apt to have hallucinations.

Jacques (after an interval) — How deep are we now?

Professor — I just detected an actor whose voice can be heard beyond the third row, a chicken pie with chicken in it, a five-cent phone booth and a statement from a responsible statesman urging thrift. Boy, are we getting results!

Jacques — Look out the starboard side, dad! I see what seems like an old-fashioned linen restaurant napkin, a nickel cigar, a cocktail glass big enough to be seen by the naked eye and a kept pledge to cut taxes.

Professor — We're certainly down almost two miles then.

Jacques — Any sign of a fifty-cent world series bleacher ticket, the allied list of aims in the last world war or a free-lunch counter, popper?

Professor — Boy, when we get down that deep we'll be really performing!

Flood of Complaints

Phone Service Troubles PUCO's Big Headache

By BILL TERRY

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—One of the toughest jobs the revitilized state utilities commission has tackled is that of keeping up with telephone service complaints.

All problems haven't been solved but the commission says the independent telephone companies either have agreed or have been ordered to make about 20 million dollars worth of improvements.

The commission about 18 months ago revamped its setup to better handle its workload which multiplied after World War II. The telephone service complaint program illustrated what the commission has been able to do in gearing its services current demands.

Independent telephone companies numbering about 175 serve about 20 per cent of all Ohio phone subscribers. Their lines are spread over about 80 per cent of the state.

"With the doubling and tripling of the demands for service," said Commissioner Ray Martin, "Many independent companies could not supply service to new subscribers and their existing service was not what it should have been. That brought on a deluge of complaints from persons who wanted telephones and those not satisfied with service they were getting."

Before the deluge one engineer could handle all complaints, usually by correspondence. When complaints came in by the hundreds, the commission divided the state into five telephone zones, stationing a resident engineer in each. Here's what happens now:

The engineer inspects lines and plant equipment of each company in his area. He also tests service offered. If he can't settle a complaint himself, he refers it to the commission. Then follow conferences between the commission and the company — and a solution usually is worked out.

"But if the company unreasonably refuses to make a needed improvement," Martin said, "then our engineers' recommendations form the basis for an order requiring the company to make the installation."

Commission telephone engineers, with the help of engineers temporarily drafted from other duties, have inspected all independent telephone company exchanges in Ohio. Now they're making a second inspection.

The commission says the 20 million dollars in improvements that have resulted so far help bring closer the ultimate goal of excellent service to the public.

"The demand for service still is far in excess of the supply of the industry as a whole," Martin said. "Until the capacity catches up with the demand still more capital improvements and additions must be made.

"The independent telephone industry has done a great deal in the way of voluntary investment in plant equipment in the last five years. However, there still remains much to be done."

The commission thinks part of the solution of the telephone service problem lies in consolidations and mergers of companies when financially and geographically possible. As Martin expresses it:

"We feel the telephone industry by its very nature generally speaking grows better as the company increases in size. It is economically impossible for a many small companies to properly operate in some parts of our state.

"We feel that in selected cases if mergers or consolidations can be effected so that one economically sound company emerges some operating expenses can be eliminated and the company will be o. such size as to be able to properly finance its improvements. All of this should result in better service to the public."

Buddy Rosar holds the record for highest fielding percentage by a catcher in a season. In 117 games for the 1946 Athletics, he made no errors.

ERRED IN 64TH GAME

PHILADEPHIA (AP)—Del Rice, catcher for the St. Louis Cardinals, will remember his 64th game this year. After playing 63 games without an error he failed to hold a third strike pitch to Willie Jones, enabling the Phillies' third sacker to reach base safely. The pitcher for the Redbirds was Harvey Haddix. Rice was happy, however, at the final results. The Cards won, 4-3.

There Are Right Ways and Wrong Ways

Tips on How To Nag the Wife and Win

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—Are you nagging your wife enough?

Probably not. A husband today often is "the stranger in the house," the man nobody else in the family really knows.

He eats his meals at home, reads the newspaper, pats the children absent-mindedly on the head when his wife says they've been good, spanks them absent-mindedly on the bottom when she says they've been bad, and brings her his paycheck regularly.

But many wives want more from a husband than this. Although they take him for granted, they don't want him to take them for granted.

They want some sign of love from him, or else they mope and become unhappy.

The smart thing for a husband to do in this case is start nagging his wife immediately, as nagging is the simplest and easiest way to show affection in a marriage. A wife nags her husband (she says) only because she loves him. So if he doesn't nag her back, is he being fair? Doesn't he want to return her love?

This may not be logic, but women pay no attention to the manly laws of logic.

How should a husband go about nagging his wife to prove his love?

"Why, that's easy," you might say. "Just find out something she did wrong, and pick on her for it."

Wrong, wrong, absolutely wrong! That is the way she may nag you. But you can't do that to her. She will regard it, not as nagging, but as criticism. And what self-respecting woman is going to take criticism from a man?

She will fly into a terrible tempest, and counterattack. Then you will have to listen to her itemize all the errors you made from the time you left for work that morning back to the harried moment at the altar when you told the minister, "Who, me?"—and then put the ring on her wrong finger.

Nagging that gives a wife an opening to point out your own deficiencies is no good at all. You're too vulnerable.

The best way to nag a woman is indirectly, such as by praising her when she knows she doesn't deserve it. If, for example, she has promised to dust your books during the day and you know she really won't get around to it, the thing to do right after dinner that night is to go up to the undusted shelves, then turn and tell her:

"Gee, honey, the books sure look brighter. I don't know what I'd do without a girl like you."

If you can put exactly the right note of admiration in your voice, you can work this gag nagging act 1,000 times in a row—and leave her with a guilty feeling each time.

In nagging a wife always try to throw her off balance. Many times you probably have come home late and met this chilling greeting: "Oh, it's you, is it?" Well, turn it around. Some night when you come home early, hang up your coat and hat, and then, as your wife enters the living room, say to her, "Oh! it's you—" letting your voice fail at the end.

"Is there anything wrong with me?" she says vexed.

"Why, of course not, my pet," you say, and rush over and shower her with kisses. "It's only your imagination."

Now you've really got her puzzled. This is nagging at its peak. She knows at least 100 things wrong with herself, but is mystified as to which ones you have found out. You have her on the ropes. But don't use this "Oh, it's you—" business on her too often. It wears out fast.

Another sure-fire method—say, for instance, she has started dressing like a range-rider in her home and has become a bit careless about her looks—is to pay your wife the wrong compliment, such as

"Baby, I'm certainly glad you're not like Mrs. Jones — always dressed up and thinking about nothing but her looks."

"You mean I look dowdy?" asks the wife.

"Baby, how could you look dowdy?" you say reproachfully. "You look—well, you look the way a real wife ought to look. Comfortable."

Ah, that's real nagging. She will break a leg galloping off to stare into a mirror and find out why she looks comfortable, the one way no wife wants to look to her husband.

The proper way to nag a wife is to do it in such a manner she absolutely has no comeback. And there's no deep secret to it. You just let her know you'd do anything for her and that you are wild about her for what she feels are exactly the wrong reasons. That'll keep her in love with you—and off balance forever.

Prisoner Found Guilty of Rioting

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A long-term prisoner in Ohio Penitentiary was acquitted yesterday of maliciously destroying property during the Halloween riot and fire at the prison, but was found guilty of rioting.

William St. Cyr, 27, Hartford, Conn. serving 10-25 years for armed robbery, was sentenced to pay a $500 fine and to serve 30 days in the workhouse after he is released from prison.

St. Cyr is one of seven prisoners who pleaded innocent to the charges and won separate trials. Trials for the other six have not been set.

St. Cyr asked Judge Myron B. Gessaman when he would be required to pay the fine and the judge said after he got out of prison.

"There was a reason I wanted to know. I ain't got it," said St. Cyr.

Pay Raise Refused

JERUSALEM (Israel) (AP)—Israel Parliament members of the Social-democratic labour party "Mapai" had it their own way when collecting their allowances for the past month. When the cashier paid them fifty-four Israel pounds more than usual because the House Committee had approved an increase in their representation fees and travel expenses, the Mapai deputies said "No" and returned the money. The State budget is big enough anyhow, they thought.

Deputies of other factions disagreed with the gesture. They felt entitled to accept the raise.

Harding Rallies in Last Half To Belt Fostoria 40-6

Undefeated Prexies Snare Third Buckeye League Win

By JOHN SHORT

The Harding Presidents, after being held to a 7-6 edge in the first two periods, exploded for 33 points in the second half last night to hand Fostoria's Redmen a 40-6 pasting in a Buckeye League encounter.

It was the fourth win for the undefeated Prexies and their third in Buckeye League action.

Prexies Stopped Briefly

For the first time this season the Presidents were stopped in the early stages of the game. After having had possession twice, the Prexies found they had gained a total of 54 yards before starting their first scoring drive late in the opening period

A punt return by Gene Armstrong after taking a handoff from Doug Bibler gave the winners the ball at the Harding 49. Gary Ballinger and Joe Albinack combined to spark the 51-yard drive with Ballinger climaxing the march by going over from the 14-yard marker in the last minute of the quarter. John Obenour converted to give the Prexies their first seven points.

Both teams managed to bottle up the opposition through the second period until Hubert Landers and Pat Thornton began rolling late in the quarter. The payoff came when Thornton hit Tony Nixon with a 32-yard pass which carried to the one with seconds left Landers plowed into the end zone with three seconds left in the half Thornton missed the kick to give the Prexies a 7-6 halftime edge.

Defenders Sparkle

Bob Hamer and Hank Rinnert dropped Fostoria backs for long losses at the start of the third period and Doug Bibler took in a punt at his own 30 and returned to the Fostoria 41 A holding penalty set Harding back to its own 44 but Don Schweinfurth hit Armstrong with an aerial at the 35 and the end cut back and squirmed to the 19. Ballinger gained seven, Albinack hit for two and Fred Price sneaked for a first down at the six-yard stripe. From there Ballinger scored on a sweep around end

The Prexies added an insurance tally later in that period when Chet King grabbed a pass from Schweinfurth at the 18 and outraced Fostoria defenders into the end zone The play covered 26 yards Obenour missed the kick when Harding was penalized.

Snouffer Intercepts

The first of three last-period touchdowns was set up when Joe Snouffer grabbed a Fostoria heave out of the arms of Nixon and raced 35 yards to the Fostoria 10. Three plays later King plowed over from the three and Obenour converted for a 26-6 lead.

The second TD in that period came when Ballinger took a handoff from Schweinfurth on a draw play and went straight up the middle for 14 yards. Obenour again converted to boost the score to 33-6 Snouffer set up the final tally with his second interception He took in the Landers heave at the 43 and carried to the 24 before Thornton nipped him at the sideline Schweinfurth missed King and a pass by Price was incomplete before Schweinfurth hit King at the 10 for a first down Don was shaken up on the play but had recovered by the end of the game From the 10 Bibler plunged over on the same draw play used by Ballinger Obenour converted to end the scoring at 40-6

The Harding Band under the direction of Homer Huffman presented a sesquicentennial show at the halftime intermission The show featuring special Ohio music was highlighted by the introduction of Miss Carolyn Creager Marion County sesqui queen, and her court Miss Creager was escorted across the field by Leslie Ikey, Harding drum major Members of her court were Joan Hofstetter Vivia Jones and Mrs. Sandra Brady.

Evelyn Price, a member of the band sang 'Hail Ohio,' composed by Mrs Harold K. Mouser of Coral Gables Fla., in honor of Ohio's 150th anniversary. Mrs Mouser is a former resident of Marion.

The Fostoria Band made the trip and presented a half time Gift Days show. Some of the fans failed to hear the announcement of the show and got a chuckle as the band swung into a Valentine Day formation The chuckles changed to applause, however, after the show had been completed and the band had gone through the Anniversary Waltz and wound up with a Christmas formation to the tune of White Christmas.

For the second week in a row the Harding defenders held their opposition to a minus in yards gained The Redmen ended with a loss of 13 yards on the ground They did manage to pick up 48 on passes to post a total of 35 yards during the contest.

Ken Rice, sportswriter from Fostoria, was checking the Harding lineup during the fourth period. He asked to have Joe Snouffer pointed out just as Snouffer intercepted the first of two passes. Ken pointed out that Joe's father, Harry Snouffer, played his high school football at Fostoria. After the second Snouffer interception, he was ready to start a move to get the family back there

Ray Eliot Gives Buckeyes Edge In Big Ten Tilt

By FRITZ HOWELL

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Ray Eliot, Illinois coach, went along with the consensus today that Ohio State was a two-touchdown favorite over his club, but Woody Hayes of the Bucks tossed in a dissenting thought.

Eliot—and maybe he had his tongue in his cheek—declared.

"This Ohio State team has everything. We know they have speed, passing and a good all-around defense I have a hunch they'll run us right out of the park"

But Hayes declined to go along with the idea.

"Don't let those Illini fool you," he said "Any team that completes 14 of 24 passes, and has a runner like that J. C. Caroline, is dangerous every minute. I'll settle for a one-point edge, and be glad to get it"

A crowd of some 81,000 will sit in on today's tilt, in which the Bucks will be trying to tie Michigan State for the Big Ten lead at two victories. The Ohioans have defeated Indiana and California by comfortable margins, while Illinois came from 21-7 deficits to tie Nebraska and defeat Stanford

Quarterback Johnny Borton's passing, and the running of halfbacks Bobby Watkins and Howard (Hopalong) Cassady, coupled with an outstanding front line, give the Ohioans the edge in this one, the 42nd game with the Illini In the previous games the Bucks have won 23, lost 15 and tied 3

The Illini flew into town yesterday too late to get in a practice session on the Ohio Stadium turf A member of the plane party was Lou Boudreau, manager of the Boston Red Sox and a former Illini baseball and basketball great

UCLA Rolls by Wisconsin 13-0

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The UCLA Bruins remained in the ranks of the nation's unbeaten football teams today and sent Wisconsin tumbling into the rolls of one time losers

The Pacific Coast Conference hung a 13-0 score on the visitors from Madison the second triumph in two seasons but the game left a lot of the huge crowd of 69,161 limp with unexcitement last night

Halfback Paul Cameron emerged as the main star of the affair, scoring one touchdown and leading the Bruins to the other Big Paul gained 75 yards rushing and 45 passing But the evening's longest run from scrimmage, 22 yards by Cameron, was hardly enough to send the fans into hysterics.

Alan (The Horse) Ameche, Wisconsin's tremendous fullback was successfully checked the aggressive UCLA defense Ameche got off one burst for 16 yards but his net was a mere 45 yards

13 Fans Hurt As Bleacher Seats Collapse

SHATTUCK, Okla. (AP)—The collapse of football stadium bleachers, blamed on teen-agers jumping up and down, injured 13 persons last night and halted the Woodward-Shattuck high school game.

School officials blamed the accident on "a group of boys and girls jumping up and down."

"It could have been overcrowded a little bit too," said W. E. Gorley, Shattuck superintendent os schools.

He said the bleachers that crashed to the ground were seven rows high and 60 yards long, seating some 800 fans. The game was resumed after the injured were taken to hospitals

Elm Valley Aces Drop Second Tilt

ASHLEY — Elm Valley scored first and last and were threatening Fredericktown's goal line at games' end here Friday night but went down to its second loss of the season, 18-13.

After a scoreless first half, Ed Vanausdle ran around end for 20 yards and an Elm Valley score early in the third quarter.

But Frazier entercepted an Elm Valley pass and ran 20 yards to tie the score and in the same quarter, the third, Frazier again scored on a 15-yard run. Shockman went 10 yards for the final Fredericktown tally in the fourth stanza.

Walter Borchers, Elm Valley quarterback, sneaked over from the three for Elm Valley's second score with Borchers passing to John Humes, his end, for the extra point. Holding Fredericktown for downs, a Borchers to Humes pass for 35 yards took the losers' to the Fredericktown 20 where the game ended several plays later. Elm Valley worked its way out of an early jam when it held the winners' at the Elm Valley eight-yard stripe in the first quarter.

Big Walnut comes here Friday for a Mid Buckeye League game as Elm Valley observes its Homecoming.

Hickman Paces LaRue To Win

Larry Hickman paced LaRue to a 70-20 win over Caledonia for its third victory in Double M league play Friday night on the winners' field. The game was called with seven minutes left to play due to a league rule calling the game after one team is in front by more than 45 points.

Hickman scored the first three LaRue tallies on runs of 10, 6 and 30 yards and later in the game passed 60 yards to Gene Cooper for another LaRue score before running 65 yards into the Caledonia end zone again. He drop-kicked five extra points.

Cooper recovered a Caledonia fumble in the end zone for the fourth LaRue touchdown and then Wayne Thompson went 47 yards for another six points. A 20-yard run by Keith Cooper completed LaRue's three quarter scoring and then Gerald Isom went 45 and 40 yards for the final LaRue tallies in the fourth period

Caledonia scored a touchdown in each of the first three quarters with Layman the whole show. He passed to Noggie and Belt for the first Caledonia scores and then went 50 yards for the other Dickerson and Brooks took passes for the extra points.

LaRue celebrates its Homecoming next Friday in a game with Sparta One of five girls, Edith Hoover, Barbara Benson, Sue Meyers, Marilyn Seiller and Wanda Swam, will reign as queen and the other four girls will be her attendants Selected last week by the LaRue student body, the queen will be announced Thursday.

Last-Minute Pass Whips Bucyrians

BUCYRUS — Conversions were the margin of victory last night as Willard tallied twice in the last two minutes of play to upset Bucyrus, 27-24, in a Northern Ohio League contest

Willard clinched the win on the last play of the game when Jim Hargrove passed 17 yards to Bob Stillions who caught the ball on the Bucyrus 30 and went the distance for the TD. A five-yard end zone pass from Hargrove to Jim Carpenter accounted for the preceding score.

Willard scored first mid-way through the second period when Camiscione went over from the two. Holmes missed the conversion and Bucyrus tied things up on the last play of the half when Glenn Butterworth tallied from the two.

Butterworth continued his scoring in the third quarter, tallying two touchdowns with runs of 31 and 37 yards. Stung by Bucyrus' two touchdowns, Willard struck back as Camiscione ran 57 yards to paydirt. Holmes' conversion was good and the score stood at 24-13 in favor of the visitors.

Bucyrus seemingly put the game on ice in the final stanza when Bud Armstrong took a Butterworth pass on the 25 and went the remaining distance to give the Red Men a two touchdown lead. But then Willard rallied with Hargrove's two touchdown passes and the tide turned the other way as Holmes kicked the game-deciding conversions.

Shelby Team Squeezes Past Rams To Win

UPPER SANDUSKY — Shelby's undefeated Whippets pushed all their scoring energy into the first quarter and it was enough for a 26-21 Northern Ohio League win, their third, over Upper Sandusky here Friday night.

The winners took the opening kickoff and drove for their first score with Dick Reed starting off left tackle from the three. Two and one-half minutes of play had elapsed when Don Keiser converted for Shelby.

Dave Kuenzli, halfback, electrified the crowd when he circled end and raced 82 yards into the Shelby end zone. The score came with only three minutes gone in the game and after the Rams had returned the kickoff to their own 18 Kuenzli's conversion momentarily deadlocked the score

Then Bob Adkins, Shelby's speed merchant, ran for three more Shelby scores to complete the winners' scoring With only four minutes gone in the game, Adkins went 55 yards for a Shelby touchdown after the winners took the kickoff and ran one play. He circled end for 43 yards with seven minutes left in the opening period and then near the close of the period, Adkins again went around end for 34 yards and another Shelby touchdown. Reed ran over the extra point.

Dan Gerber, Ram fullback, went off right tackle for 33 yards and an Upper score early in the second quarter and then with three minutes left in the game Kuenzli fired a short pass to End Dave Naus in the Shelby end zone.

Upper had 12 first downs to Shelby's seven and after the first quarter, the losers' controlled the ball most of the time and gained more yardage than their opponents but it was too late.

Upper, now 1-2 in NOL play and 2-2 for the season, is at Bucyrus Friday while Shelby is at Bellevue in NOL games next week.

Waitkus Back On Phil Roster

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Eddie Waitkus, 33 year-old first baseman, was back on the official roster of the Philadelphia Phillies today following the lifting of his suspension.

Many observers regarded the reinstatement as the prelude to a long-talked-of trade. The slick-fielding Eddie rode the bench during most of the 1953 season while newcomer Earl Torgeson played his position.

Waitkus, who came to the Phils in 1949 from the Cubs, was suspended by President Bob Carpenter eight days before the end of the season for leaving the club to be at the bedside of his ill father Later Eddie said he had not gone through the "proper channels" in asking permission to join his father.

Seven archers returned from the Michigan deer season unsuccessful A three-day any-deer-gun season, took a heavy toll in Michigan and made the remaining herd cautious. Only half of the hunters had a shot at any deer and those shots were at long ranges. Two members of the club, Leo Belknap and E J. Leadenham will leave Wednesday, for Potter County, Pa, for the archery deer season.

Brownies, Eagles Open Pro Weekend Activities Tonight

CLEVELAND (AP)—The Philadelphia Eagles, who generally were picked to stir up things in the National Football League this fall, tangle with the all - conquering Cleveland Browns tonight in a make-or-break game.

The league's 34th season is only two weeks old and the best the Eagles have done in two games is a 21-21 tie with Washington In their other start they dropped a 31-21 decision to the San Francisco 49ers At least they have been consistent in number of points scored in each game

By contrast the Browns top the Eastern Conference with two victories, scored at the expense of Green Bay and the Chicago Cardinals In each game Paul Brown's boys tallied 27 points while holding the Packers scoreless and checking the Cardinals with seven.

With Otto Graham showing no signs of age in-so-far as his deadly passing is concerned, the Browns figure to remain unbeaten and march on to another conference championship.

The remainder of the league sees action tomorrow Baltimore plays the Bears at Chicago The Cardinals will be at Pittsburgh Los Angeles' Rams and the Packers tangle at Milwaukee. New York's winless Giants hope to get their offense clicking against the Redskins at Washington and the 49ers and the Lions clash at Detroit in a game between the unbeaten leaders of the Western Conference

These Days

By George Sokolsky

There is a vast experience in our relations with Oriental peoples and out of it must come the conclusion that while they dislike being governed by Westerners, they hate being controlled by any other Oriental people. On June 29, I wrote in this column:

SOKOLSKY

"From my long experience with Asiatic peoples, I can only see massacres, assassinations and terror in the future. The Koreans will no more submit to the presence of Hindus in their country than they submitted to the Japanese and to Chinese Communists. They even opposed a Formosan participating army.

"The Americans were not resisted because the Koreans knew, as all Asiatics do, that Americans always go home. They are not empire-builders and they have no desire to occupy the lands of other peoples.

"That has never been the history of the Chinese or the Hindus, who have in their history occupied areas imperialistically. China held Korea in suzerainty for 300 years; Japan annexed Korea."

THIS JUDGMENT has unfortunately turned out to be correct. I cite my own words not to advertise my wisdom, small as it is, but to indicate that any student of the Orient should have known that sending Indian troops to Korea would lead to trouble.

The British used Sikhs to police the Chinese in their International settlements and when Sikh police shot down Chinese workers in Shanghai on May 30, 1925 it produced an anti - British boycott that eventually led to revolution.

Indians are temperamentally unsuited to be neutral about anything. They are a volatile, excitable, almost an hysterical people, perhaps because they were so long in subjection.

While they speak vehemently about their independence, they have known little of it throughout their history. Layer upon layer of conquerors has held the original Dravidian race in subjection.

The caste system has been attributed by some historians to these numerous conquests, of which the British was the last.

THERE IS NO period in Indian history, and this includes Pakistan, when these people have known freedom, as we understand the term.

As early as 3,000 years ago, the northern mountains began to pour population down into the valleys and rich plains of India, the Aryans coming first, probably from what is now Iran.

It was out of this Aryan civilization that the caste system developed, their population being divided into Brahman, Kshatriya, Valsya, and Sudra, the last being slaves because of their black color.

On account of these conquests and the varieties of ethnic groups, India recognizes 147 distinct languages under nine differentiated families of tongues.

THE PERSIANS under Darius I, the polyglot armies of Alexander the Great, the Syrians, the Bactrians, the Yueh - Chih (probably Scythians), the Parthians, the White Huns (Hepthalites), Arabs, Mongols, more recent Persians, Chinese, British, French, Portuguese either invaded or conquered some parts of India. (What is here said of India includes the new country, Pakistan.)

These, then, are numerous races and combinations of races with long histories of oppression and hatred and internal and external wars.

They are insecure peoples who know nothing good about strangers and who have a long tradition of being either conquerors or of being conquered.

The psychological effect of such a history upon the people is to fluctuate between cringing before power or becoming bullies when in power.

IN THE KOREAN episode, the Indians have displayed both characteristics: unable to be neutral because of their insecurity, they cringe before the Russian power that lies on their north and they bully the Koreans, who are too weak to fight back although they threaten to.

The Soviet world touches India and Pakistan at many points. In the northwest, it borders on Afghanistan, which is an unknown quantity and through which the Russians could pass without much difficulty.

The famous Khyber Pass that, when the British held it, protected India from the north is no longer defensible. Tibet and the Sinkiang province of China (Turkestan) run a long frontier with India, Pakistan, Nepal, Bhutan, and Assam, making the north of India and both parts of Pakistan readily conquerable.

On both sides of the border are kindred peoples, many of whom are Communists.

Many of these races dislike the Indians and would welcome a revolution which would free them.

Nehru lives in fear of this and therefore placates Russia. But does that justify bullying Korea?

"COME HOME DADDY." Little Paula Bell, 3, looks longing at photo of her father, Cpl. Otho G. Bell, as her mother makes a tape recording to advise him they are awaiting his return. Paula, whom Bell has never seen, also pleaded for her daddy's return. Bell was listed by Communists as one of 23 Americans who prefer to remain with their Korean captors. Recording is being sent to Bell through regular mail channels. "We hope they'll play it for him at Indian Village," near Panmunjom, Mrs. Bell said.

Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

That old cry of the sea, "women and children first" is being given a macabre new twist on the waterfront by mobs now operating a terror machine with which they hope to save some of the $350,000,000-a-year loot they picked up with the old Longshoremen's Union as a front.

RIESEL

Mid night phone calls to distraught women, children huddled in fright listening to white - faced parents talk of threats of ice picks in the spinal cords and lime bags waiting on the docks for their human victims — these mark the real waterfront war in the shadowlands behind the headlines.

Methodically tough goons, talking out of the corners of their mouths, have been picking on the honest longshoremen leaders from Portland, Me., to Norfolk, Va., who have revolted against the old regime and bolted into the new AFL Longshoremen's union.

THIS IS NO WAR of an old union against a new. This is a war of the Murder, Inc., and convict mobs seeking to protect their old preserves.

According to affidavits being prepared by the new International Longshoremen's Assn., launched by AFL president George Meany in St. Louis last month, the families of some of these rebels against the old rot, and at least 12 of the new clean leaders themselves, have been threatened with oath.

Over in Brooklyn, the thugs of old Murder, Inc., didn't take a holiday even for the World Series.

They telephoned the wife of a leader of Local 1199-1, Longshoremen, now suporting the new AFL outfit. They told her that they'd kill her and her young child. That's now on the police records for all to check.

THE WOMAN telephoned the cops even before consulting her husband, who knows that the combined forces of the Seafarers, the Teamsters and the new Longshoremen's units are behind them.

It's no reflection on the brains of either the rank and file or the leadership of these unions that they can match the mobs muscle for muscle and baseball bat for baseball bat. And they will, to protect their people in this crusade, if the official leaders of the ousted International Longshoremen's Assn. don't dissociate themselves publicly from the goons and join in a warning against violence.

Human lives come first. But even if no one winds up with more than a cracked skull, civil war on this front can strangle much of the nation's trade.

BASED ON experience in past strikes which have immobilized just the Port of New York, businessmen the nation over lose as much as 48 million dollars a month when cargo handling is paralyzed. And there are scores of ports. Each would be shut tighter than a hatch in a hurricane if violence flares.

It will explode if incidents such as the following don't end immediately:

Just a few days ago in the office of Local 976, Freight Handlers Union, one of its leaders looked up from his desk to see two notorious members of what is known as the corrupt "Pistol Local" of longshoremen.

Softly, real movie-like, they said, "If you know what's good for you, you'll come back to us and not support the other crowd. You're smart. You know what to do. You don't wanna get hurt."

EARLIER, another leader of a local rebelling against the old union on the west side of New York received a phone call.

"You're finished," the voice said. "You'll be floating down the river if you don't keep your mouth shut. Stay out of that AFL thing."

So it goes with most of the key men who have large following among the rebellious longshoremen, freight handlers, checkers and other dock wallopers.

This is real terror. Those being threatened have long ago grown cynical over the chances of protection from the authorities. They are now organizing to take care of themselves.

NOTHING may happen for the duration of President Eisenhower's first Taft - Hartley injunction. But then nothing can prevent the old longshoremen from trying to paralyze all waterborne commerce from Europe, Africa and the Near East.

At that point the Seafarers, the Teamsters and the new longshoremen's outfit will try to move cargo and ships. If they succeed, the old crowd will be wiped out of a multi-million dollar take.

Some of the gang warlords on their special piers won't give this up without opening up with their artillery.

30-Weeks Course

The program, beginning Oct. 21, will be a 30-week course in the methods of detecting and curing cancer. They will be shown every Wednesday from 5 to 6 p.m. in the Academy of Medicine Building in Toledo.

At the Wednesday meeting of the board of trustees of the Marion County Unit of the American Cancer Society, $250 was allocated to help pay for the broadcasts which will originate in New York.

Many of the shows will be broadcast as they actually happen. The others will be filmed for broadcasting. Private individuals will not be able to pick up the series on their own television sets.

Each program will deal with types of cancer which can be detected in the early stages and will then show the doctors how to treat it.

Tumors and cancerous growths will be traced from their origins to their removal. Also studied will be skin blemishes, and lesions which may be the sources of cancer.

The series is sponsored by the American Cancer Society.

At the Marion Chapter meeting of the society Wednesday, a nominating committee was named for the election of officers in December.

Mrs. John Waddell, Mrs. Dwight Mahaffey and Miss Madge Cooper were named to serve as a nominating committee by the president, J. F. Taft.

The following new members were welcomed: Mrs. Esther Lett, [illegible] Club, Jessie A Gardner Federated Club, Mrs. Myrtle Evans, Navy Club Auxiliary, Mrs. Ray Semmler, Clionian Club, Dr. E H. Morgan, Marion Camp No. 32, United Spanish War Veterans, Miss Marie Wolf, Altrusa Club, and Mrs. Dwight Mahaffey, Elks Women's Club.

Marion Man Injured in City Auto Accident

Police Report Five of Six Mishaps; One Occurs in County

One person was slightly injured in one of six traffic accidents in Marion city and county reported today by city police and the state highway patrol.

Charles W. Boyd, 23, of 239½ Gurley Ave. received an injured right knee and left arm in one of five accidents investigated by city police.

He was hurt when his car and another car driven by Lowell Taylor, 17, of near Radnor collided at S. State St. and E. Columbia at 9:36 p.m. last night. Police reported Boyd was driving south on S. State St. and Taylor was traveling west on W. Columbia St. Force of the collision spun Boyd's car around and it swerved to the west across State St. onto a lawn at the southwest corner of the intersection. Both cars and the lawn were damaged.

Taken to Marion City Hospital, Boyd was treated but was not admitted.

Two taxicabs were involved in one of four other minor accidents in the city. The grill and right front fender of a taxi driven by Leonard Mustard, 40, of 505 Euclid Ave. were damaged when it struck the rear of a taxi driven by Donald J. Gorrell, 29, of LaRue on W. Center St. near Oak St. at 9:24 p.m. last night.

Cars driven by Francis W. Norris, 59, of 407 Oak St. and J. J. Keggan Jr., of 482 Courtland Terrace were damaged when Keggan's car struck the rear of Norris' car in the 400 block on W. Center St. at 12:03 p.m. yesterday. The accident was reported to police at the police station by Norris at 5:15 p.m. yesterday, police said.

The rear end of a car driven by Karl E. Hawkins, 38, of 246 Jefferson St. was damaged when struck by a truck backing out of a driveway at E. Center and Charles St. at 3:40 p.m. yesterday. Driver of the truck was Carl J. Lookabaugh, 25, of Ashland. Police reported no damage to the truck.

Charles Hough of 213 N. State St. reported to police at 2:10 a.m. this morning that another car struck his car while it was parked at N. State and Quarry Sts. causing damage to the left front fender of his car. He did not identify the driver of the other car and police said the other driver failed to come to the police station to report the mishap.

State Highway Patrol Reports One Accident

One minor accident was reported by state highway patrolmen from the Marion post in the last 24 hours. A parked car owned by Ted Rambo of New Bloomington was parked on the side of highway 95 in New Bloomington and apparently was hit by a backing vehicle.

The accident happened about 7:15 p.m. Friday. Patrolmen are investigating the mishap. It was not classed as a hit-skip accident this morning.

Homicide Capt. David E. Kerr of Cleveland, Ohio, said firings there connected John Wesley Wable, described as a dark, thin-faced man, with the wounding of John K. Shepard, 34, while he slept in his truck near Lisbon, Ohio, last July.

Last night in Cleveland employes of an auto agency said a man who looked like Wable took out a car for a demonstration ride and failed to return. The man left behind a stolen car.

related. "The fare was a well-dressed man who appeared to have been drinking. He looked like a 'good-time Charley' to me.

"The fare said his name was Steve. I told him I knew a friend who might be able to get him a date.

"I got two metal suitcases out of the trunk of the other cab and put them in the trunk of my cab. I had a hard time getting both suitcases in the trunk and suggested I put one up front. But Steve said 'No.'

"We drove out to Sandy O'Day's house (she now is held in Kansas City as a material witness), picked up Sandy, went to a bar and had some drinks for which Steve paid with a $20 bill. He shoved the change, $18, across the table to me and said, 'You take this.' I said to myself, 'What a fare I've got here!'"

500 Attend Sale

The crowd Friday night was estimated at close to 500 persons. The extension office printed about 300 programs before the sale. These were completely gone within 10 minutes after officials began to pass them out to the crowd.

Don McCoy of the Claridon 4-H Club had the first place medium Hereford. His steer was purchased by the Kroger Store in Marion at a price of $37 per hundredweight. Lawrence Magill was the bidder.

Winner in the medium Shorthorn contest was Marvin Herschner of the Johnsville 4-H Club. His animal bought by the Big Bear Store of Marion for $30 per hundredweight.

Girl's Angus Wins

Beverly Carman of the Marseilles 4-H Club had the best medium weight Angus in the opinion of judge Everett Royer of Irwin. Her animal brought $33.50 per hundredweight from the Sternbaum Market in Bucyrus.

Sternbaum's Market of Mansfield was the successful bidder for the best lightweight Hereford of the show, which was exhibited by Danny Sager of Bowling Green 4-H Club. Price paid for this steer was also $33.50 per hundred pounds.

A full house with standing room only was on hand for the sale which began about 8 p.m. Auctioneer Forest Day of Sunbury told the audience he was delayed because of trouble in finding a place to park at the stockyards.

Judge Royer told the audience in the afternoon the steer displayed by Isler was the "mellowest" (meatiest) calf he ever judged.

All steers in the show were raised as 4-H Club and FFA Chapter projects. Many were champions or prize winners in local fairs.

The agricultural Extension Service was in charge of the show in the afternoon. James Smoot of Producers Livestock handled the details of preparing for the evening sale.

Chinese Reds Propose Panmunjom Conferences

Judge Cancels Man's Probation

Probation of Robert Lee Murphy, 26, of 251 Senate St. was canceled Friday by Common Pleas Judge Paul D. Smith and he was fined $200 and sentenced to be confined in the Marion County jail for six months.

This action followed violations of Murphy's probation which were listed as drinking contrary to rules of probation, leaving the state without permission, and general conduct not in accord with probation.

At the hearing, it was brought out that Murphy had been given a lie detector test at the London Prison Farm earlier this week, and results of the test indicated that he had guilty knowledge of a recent break-in at the Crown Jewelry Store.

Murphy had been placed on probation originally on an assault and battery charge.

Police Charge 3 With Violations in Traffic

Three traffic arrests were reported today by Marion police.

Kenneth A. Ernst, 24, of Cardington was charged with failure to secure safety chains from his car to a trailer. Herbert M. Barker, 43, of 450 N. Main St. was charged with failure to register an automobile. Henry W. Brewer, 31, of 913 Cheney Ave. was charged with driving without a driver's license.

Ernst pleaded guilty this morning in Municipal Court and was fined $15 and costs. Barker and Brewer are to appear for hearings next week.

Man Admits Drunken Driving Charge, Jailed

Archie H. Lane, 45, of 245 Jefferson St. today pleaded guilty in Municipal Court to charges of driving while under the influence of intoxicating liquors. He was sentenced to five days in county jail, fined $100 and had his operator's license suspended for three years.

He was arrested this morning by patrolmen from the Marion Post on U. S. Highway 23.

tory. Italy has demanded a plebiscite in the entire territory.

Of his new suggestion, Tito said: "This is a proposal worthy to be seriously considered. I have no other and do not wish to give any other proposal."

Then he warned: "Should the Western Allies gloss over this proposal as they have done so far, then there will be no peace in this part of Europe."

This would mean, he added, the Western Allies do not wish to "honor the interests of the peoples of Yugoslavia but work toward the satisfaction of Italian imperialistic appetites."

Congressman Raps Troop Withdrawal

TRIESTE (AP) — Rep. Harold C. Hagen (R-Minn) today attacked withdrawal of American and British troops from Trieste as "unrealistic" and said he will ask Congress to investigate the decision.

Arriving here from Yugoslavia at the end of a five-week tour of Europe, Hagen said he will urge the House and Senate Foreign Affairs Committees to send an investigating team here in hopes of delaying the withdrawal.

"This has been a very unrealistic decision," the Minnesota Republican said of the British-American proposed to turn over zone A of the Trieste free territory to Italian administration.

State Liquor Agent Files New Charges

New charges were filed against three Marionites in Marion Municipal Court this morning as a result of a raid of Moose Lodge club rooms at 152 N. Main St. on Aug. 9 by city police and Ohio Department of Liquor Enforcement agents.

Signed by Agent Lawrence Lucius, the new charges are against Joseph Patrick McGary, 40, of 178 Patten St. charged with being the keeper of a place where "high-powered beer and whiskey" were sold illegally; Donald E. Bassler, 23, of 474 Silver St., and Reba Dale Darby of 416 S. Prospect St., both charged with illegally selling "high-powered beer and whiskey."

An arraignment on the charges is scheduled for Oct. 15 in Municipal Court. McGary was released on $300 bond and the other two on $100 bonds.

They were arrested yesterday by Marion police on warrants signed by Lucius.

All three were previously arrested Aug. 9, along with a fourth person, in a raid on the Moose Lodge Club rooms. The charges filed as a result of the raid were dismissed in Municipal Court Sept. 29.

Charges against McGary at that time were: being the keeper of a place for the illegal sale of alcoholic beverages and having possession of gambling devices. The other two were charged with illegally selling alcoholic beverages. The fourth person was charged with disorderly conduct.

Lucius was not available today to say why the new charges were filed against the three persons, but Municipal Court attaches said it was understood the state attorney general's office had a hand in the filing of the new charges.

Kinsey Book Hit In Bucyrus Talk

Special to The Star

BUCYRUS—Dr. Alfred Kinsey's new book on the sex life of women was denounced here Thursday by Dr. P. W. Wiltberger, Columbus obstetrician and geneticist, in a talk before the Modern Homemakers Club.

Dr. Wiltberger asserted that the latest Kinsey book is "invalid and misleading and its author would have gotten a more fair sampling by standing in the square here or on Broad and High streets in Columbus, querying women, except for one factor--98 per cent of the interviewees would have slapped his face or at least refused to answer his questions concerning their intimate sex life."

The Columbus physician asserted that most medical doctors are fully aware of the facts contained in the Kinsey report but that they are bound by their profession not to discuss the confidences of their patients.

The speaker pointed out that Dr. Kinsey is no medical doctor but an entomologist. He assailed the sampling technique of the Kinsey staff and stated that he believed 98 per cent of women will not discuss their sex life while the other two per cent are of a type, which would make the survey results inapplicable to the majority.

Kidnaping

O'Day opened after Hall had told the woman to take it to California and mail it.

According to the cab driver, John Hager, the letter read:

"Things not going as well as expected. May have to leave the country by ship or plane. Carl."

The FBI declined to comment on the letter.

Hall met the O'Day woman in St. Louis. She was arrested here and is being held as a material witness.

Funeral services were held yesterday for little Bobby.

Hearing Waived

At about the same time Mrs. Heady and Hall made their first court appearance. They waived a hearing on a federal charge of extortion in connection with the $600,000 ransom.

Delaware Girl, 2, Strangles on Pill; Dies After Surgery

Special to The Star

DELAWARE — Janet Lee Hopper, 2½, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ward Hopper of Delaware, died early Friday in Jane M. Case Hospital after strangling on a pill, despite attempts to save her by two operations, including heart massage.

The child was rushed to the hospital at 8:58 p.m. Thursday after a medicinal tablet had lodged in the trachea. She had been ill with a high fever in the afternoon and the medicine had been prescribed by a physician.

The city emergency squad was called to the home by the parents when the child started to suffocate. Oxygen was administered at the home and enroute to the hospital.

At the hospital, the throat was opened and the tablet was removed. Immediately after the operation, the child's heart stopped beating and a second operation was performed which opened the chest for heart massage.

The child was revived and placed in a portable iron lung. She remained in the lung until her death occurred about 2:15 a.m.

Surviving besides the parents are two brothers, Robert and Larry, both at home, and the grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Ropp of Detroit, Mrs. Velma Hopper and Ray Hopper, both of Delaware.

Private funeral services will be held at 2 p.m. Sunday with Rev. A. J. Sterrett, pastor of the Evangelical and Reformed Church, officiating. Burial will be made in Oak Grove Cemetery. Friends may call at the Robinson-Hanrahan Funeral Home.

Richwood Woman Fined

Mildred L. Fender of near Richwood was fined $100 and costs in Marion Municipal Court yesterday when she pleaded guilty to a fraud charge filed against her by Fred Wolever of 251 Oak St.

She was arrested by Marion police at 10:25 a.m. yesterday on N. Main St. The warrant signed by Wolever charged she sold him a sofa and breakfast set for $85 on Sept. 26 with intent to defraud. The warrant said she did not own the furniture nor have clear title to it.

Acting Judge E. L. Mitchell suspended $75 of the fine on condition she repay the $35 to Wolever.

ocratic nomination over the "organization" candidate, Albert S. Porter, backed by Cleveland Democratic Chairman Ray T. Miller.

Some newsmen speculated Lausche was delaying appointment of a successor to Taft until the primary determined which faction would control the Cleveland mayorship.

If Celebrezze won, the speculation continued, Burke could appoint Celebrezzze city law director, resign and accept the Senate appointment. Celebrezze would become acting mayor, giving the Lausche-backed candidate the advantage of incumbency in the general election.

YOUR HOME . . . Today and Tomorrow

By DOUGLAS TUOMEY

Certain types of tables are known as "open tables. They derive their name from the fact that the legs do not have rungs or stretchers between them to stiffen and strengthen them. Most homeowners are familiar with the type and know how easily they are-rd ewk know how easily they are weakened and break when a heavy piece, such as a television set is placed upon them. The usual defect is that the legs spread rnd the table falls apart.

There is but one way in which to strengthen this kind of furniture and it consists of installing braces between the legs.

The first step is to bore half-inch holes through the legs in such a manner as to permit half-inch dowel wood rungs to be inserted. After the rungs are in place, a thin wire nail should be driven through the leg so that it pins the rung in place and makes it impossible to work out. One need not be a furniture maker to appreciate that such braces make an otherwise weak table a very solid affair.

The proper location for the brace is this: the rungs joining the two front legs of the table should be set about midway up the legs and the rungs joining the front legs to the rear legs are best located about an inch higher. If the rungs are located high up on the legs they do not lend nearly as much strength and if located lower down they make cleaning or sweeping difficult.

The type of bracing suggested does not detract from the appearance of the table because the rungs are light and in harmony with the design. Heavier, square braces are inclined to spoil the delicate design which is part of the beauty of the open-type table.

The dowel wood necessary for a two-foot by two-foot table can be bought in any hardware store for a few cents a foot.

STAINS ARE POPULAR

One of the most popular finishes for furniture is wood stain. The grain of wood is made up of hard and soft areas. The soft portions absorb the stain more quickly than the hard ones. After the stain has set for suffcient time to permit its working into the wood, wipe the excess off the surface. This leaves the hard areas lighter than the soft sections. In this way the grain of the wood is attractively emphasized. Ready-made stains are available in a wide variety of attractive colors.

The first pure nickel coin is believed to have been a 20 centime piece issued in Switzerland in 1881.

Aid for the Ailing House

By ROGER WHITMAN

Q: I have a concrete block garage and it is located on the lower end of my lot. Some leaks have developed on the one side where the concrete floor connects with the blocks. How can I prevent such leakage

A: Cut a deep groove into the joint between the floor and the wall keeping the sides rough. After brushing out all loose particles wet the interior of the groove and then fill with a fairly stiff but workable mixture of one part portland cement and three parts of clean, coarse sand. Keep the new mortar damp for several days to allow cement to harden without shrinking. In place of the mortar, the joint can be filled with hot tar or asphalt roof cement. When using either of the latter, be sure the groove is perfectly dry.

Q: Our chimney has white powder spots that look like baking soda. We washed off these spots, then applied a cement wash. But the powder came through and the cement fell off What remedy can you suggest Will painting the chimney with liquid asphalt and then the application of a coat of paint help any?

A: I presume the chimney is comparatively new. The efflorescence occurring on the surface of the brick may continue for a year or two and will eventually stop. The application of asphalt on the brick and then painting the asphalt would create an awful mess and I doubt that it would remedy the condition. You should get satisfactory results by scrubbing the brick with a solution of muriatic acid by mixing one part acid in ten parts of water. Pour the acid slowly to avoid splashing. use a wooden pail to hold the solution. Apply this liberally on the brick and after two or three minutes scrub with more of the solution using a fibre brush for the purpose. Rinse well with clear water. Muriatic acid is highly corrosive and should be handled with extreme care. Use rubber gloves, old clothing and goggles to protect the eyes. After the brick has been thoroughly cleaned, apply a couple of coats of a dampproof cement base paint.

Funds Granted For Medical Research Gain

Increase Tenfold in Past Decade, Stand At $181 Million Now

WASHINGTON—(NANA)—There has been a tenfold increase in the money available for medical research in the United States during the past decade-from about $18,000,000 just before the war to $181,000 000 at the present moment

This is reported by Drs. Kenneth M. Endicott and Ernest M. Allen of the National Institute of health. The greatest jump, from 18 000,000 to 115,000,000, came during the war years with the emergency need for research in many medical fields Normally this could have been expected to drop off with the end of the emergency Instead research has been extended and intensified.

Notable has been the increased part played by the federal government which provided only $28,000 000 in 1946 and $76 000 000 in 1951. The comparable contributions from American industry were $55,000,000 and $65',000 000 Contributions from all other sources, including foundations, were $32,000.000 in 1946 and $45,000 000 in 1951.

Expenditures for medical research have increased out of proportion to the national income, the doctors report. In 1940, for example. 02 per cent of this income was spent for this purpose. This now has been increased to .07 per cent, with probabilities of still further increase Still, they report, the demand seems for from being satisfied.

"Rapid expansion in medical research was inevitable at the end of the war," they say. Military necessity had required the initiation of the expansion and had set in motion the increase in use of manpower, the build-up of facilities and the popular interest in academic scientists The general public, deeply impressed by the success of atomic research, for instance, manifested its desire to support medical research by establishing and giving generously to voluntary associations

Doctors Endicott and Allen say, too, that "A major effect has been to stimulate research in neglected fields—particularly on some of the chronic diseases."

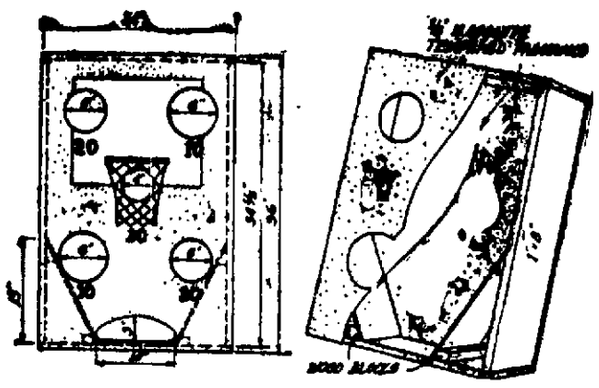
Job for Home Workshop

Bean Bag Game Means Fun for Entire Family



By The Associated Press

Here comes the indoor season with its special projects for the home workshop.

How about making a bean bag game? It will make a wonderful Christmas present for both young and old. And it's a good project for the whole family. The bean bags can be made by the distaff side, the box by the men. The kids can run the errands.

Denim is excellent for the bags. Make them 4 by 5 inches in size and fill them only three-fourths full with dried beans.

For the box, cut two pieces of 1 by 8-inch pine each 24 inches long and two more pieces 34½ inches long. Nail these together as shown in the illustration. For the back, nail on a piece of eighth-inch tempered hardboard, 24 by 36 inches.

Inside the box put two sloping pieces of hardboard at one end to funnel the bean bags to one convenient place.

In the front panel of hardboard, cut scoring holes 4, 5 and 6 inches in diameter. Attach front panel, prime and paint.

British Guiana Quiet Despite Ouster of Reds

London Removes Six Ministers, Charging Communist Conspiracy

GEORGETOWN, British Guiana (AP)—With British troops and warships maintaining order at strategic points, British Guiana remained calm today despite London's ouster of six ministers on Communist charges and suspension of the colony's six-month-old Constitution.

Wasington backed up Britain, expressing grave concern over the threat to Western Hemispheric security from a possible coup in this South American colony by the "international Communist conspiracy." The U. S. State department expressed gratification that the "British government is taking firm action to meet the situation."

Other Governments Informed

Steps were taken to officially inform all Latin American governments of the U. S. stand.

Five hundred troops of the Royal Welsh Fusiliers guarding government centers in Georgetown and rich sugar plantations on the surrounding plains reported no disturbances.

Despite a state of emergency declared by British Gov. Sir Alfred Savage, life among the 450,000 residents of diverse races appeared to be following the normal course—except on the political front.

Britain cracked down on the colony's government yesterday, charging that Prime Minister Cheddi Jagan and his five ousted associates were serving Moscow instead of Britain.

'Would Go To Any Length'

"The faction in power have shown they are prepared to go to any length, including violence, to turn British Guiana into a Communist state," the London government declared.

The ousted Cabinet ministers, all members of the leftist People's Progressive party, were accused of supporting Communist fronts, fomenting strikes and threatening the public welfare. They have been in office only six months.

In announcing suspension of the Constitution, Britain said a commission of inquiry would investigate the "political advance of the colony" and make "recommendations for a revised Constitution."

Jagan and his American-born wife, the former Janet Rosenberg, said yesterday they were "most unhapy about the whole situation." Both have denied they are Communists. Jagan is an East Indian who once studied dentistry in Chicago. His wife, whom he met in Chicago is executive secretary of the PPP.

Better To Save as Fertilizer

'Don't Burn Leaves,' Say Lawn Care Experts

Lawn sweeping seems to be as important as carpet sweeping—especially when you'd like to duck away to shoot a duck. Your bride of a few years, more or less, reminds you about the old rake and that's that.

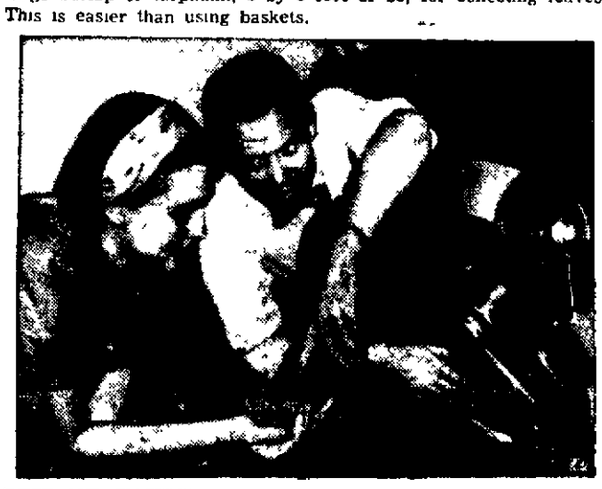
Well, it's nice to know that leaves are good for the lawn. Of course, you can't leave them lying flat to smother the grass. But the best lawn experts are strong for mulches, and chopped up leaves make a wonderful mulch.

Bill Grant, for instance, who has charge of the landscaping around the famous Belmont race track, says it's a crime ever to sweep up lawn cuttings. They return to the soil the organic matter that came from the soil, Grant argues.

The same with leaves, Dr. James R. Watson, chief agronomist for a large lawn mower manufacturer, says "Don't burn leaves unless you have to." When you burn leaves you burn fertilizer of the best kind.

Dr. Watson recommends two ways out: (1) Use a pulverizer attachment on a rotary mower to suck up the leaves and grind them into mulch; 2) Sweep leaves up into old sheets or burlap squares for carrying to your compost pile or leaf mold heap.

RAKE WITH A PLAN in big squares, about 20 by 25 feet. Use a large burlap or tarpaulin, 8 by 8 feet or so, for collecting leaves. This is easier than using baskets.



BEST AND EASIEST method of leaf disposal is frequent mowing to chop them into mulch on the lawn. A leaf mulcher can be attached to a rotary lawn mower to draw leaves by suction into pulverizing blades which handle as much as 30 bushels per minute. Here researcher Donald O. Benson shows how it works.

DON'T BURN LEAVES, but if you must, don't start your basket fire this close to a fence and brush pile. Place the basket on concrete driveway or other open place with hose handy.

Soldier Faces Life in Prison

Jury Finds Him Guilty In Slaying of Official

ZANESVILLE, Ohio (AP) — A 26-year-old soldier, who escaped from an Army stockade and killed a motorist with whom he hitched a ride, today faced a life sentence in Ohio Penitentiary.

Harold St. John of Dorchester, Mass., was found guilty yesterday of second-degree murder in the slaying of Joseph W. Harding, assistant state industrial relations director, last Aug. 26.

A jury found him guilty after five hours deliberation. He was sentenced immediately by Common Pleas Judge Clarence J. Crossland.

Asked if he had anything to say before sentence was pronounced, St. John told Judge Crossland, "No, sir, except that what I said was true."

He had testified the shooting was accidental. He said the 53-year-old Harding had made improper advances to him after picking him up on the outskirts of Columbus.

St. John said he drew a pistol after Harding made the advances, but that Harding grabbed the gun from him. St. John said he drew a second gun and in the ensuing struggle St. John himself was wounded in the knee and Harding was shot twice.

The slaying occurred in front of a motel on U. S. 40 near Zanesville.

Prosecutor Joseph McNearny claimed St. John's statements about Harding making improper advances were "a filthy little sex story," and "something he memorized" for the trial.

If piano keys are not too badly yellowed, it might help to clean them of surface dirt with soap or some mild cleanser, then follow this by careful use of a small amount of some bleach material.

Two Men Plead Guilty To Kidnaping of Couple

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Benjamin B. Williams of Lisbon, Ohio, and Francis L. McDole of Smiths Ferry, Pa., pleaded guilty yesterday to charges of kidnaping a young Ohio couple Aug. 16.

They were indicted by a federal grand jury Thursday on charges of abducting Henry Cornman, 23, and Miss Mary Joe Buchanan, 20, both of East Liverpool, Ohio, and forcing them at gunpoint to accompany them on an auto ride to Pennsylvania.

Sentence on the federal charge will be imposed later.

The pair also face Pennsylvania charges of rape and armed robbery. They are accused of attacking Miss Buchanan during the ride and robbing Cornman of his wallet.

Bricker Asks Investigation

Waste Buying Claimed In Army Equipment

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Armed Services Committee asked one of its investigators Friday to go to Columbus, Ohio and look into complaints about the handling of spare parts for Army equipment.

Fred Rhodes, chief counsel of the committee's preparedness investigating staff, said the man should be in Columbus today or Monday.

Sen. Bricker (R-Ohio) had asked the committee to investigate reports of waste in buying spare parts for such items as generators and cranes by the control center in Columbus.

Among other things, he said he understood some manufacturers were tricking the Army into buying a number of parts it didn't need.

"We don't know yet just how big this is," said Rhodes. "It's apt to fan out a lot farther than Columbus."

Scientists Seek Cure For Sleeping Sickness

SANTA BARBARA, Calif. (UP)—Scientists at Santa Barbara College of the University of California are investigating an antibiotic drug that checks the life cycle of the parasite that transmits the fatal Chagas' disease—Brazilian sleeping sickness.

Despite five years of research, there is still much work ahead before the drug—called prodigiosin—can be used as a cure because it is considered too toxic for human use at present.

It is hoped by the scientists that the study will stimulate interest in the antibiotic so that it may eventually be modified chemically to a useful form.

Trypanosoma Cruzi is the microscopic parasite that causes the deadly disease. The organism destroys body tissue, especially the heart muscles, usually resulting in death.

The disease is prevalent in South America and is transmitted by the "kissing bug" that bites humans around the mouth at night.

Man Confesses Cashing 2,000 Rubber Checks

SPENCER, Ind. (AP)—State police detectives said yesterday a man who escaped from the Lebanon, Ohio, prison honor farm has admitted cashing an estimated $12,000 worth of bogus checks in at least 40 Indiana towns.

Trooper Charles Harbison said the man, Clyde Copes, 30, blamed "money hungry merchants" for making it so easy to cash almost 2,000 rubber checks he said he had written since July. They said he admitted he had been writing bad checks since he was 12.

Copes was arrested here Thursday night after passing a check at an auto supply store.

State police said before his conviction on the forgery charge Copes was confined at the Lima State Hospital for treatment of a mental condition.

CLEVELAND (AP) — George T. Roberts, 50, a television actor, was killed yesterday in a two-car collision.

Big Names in Social, Business Circles Are 'Angels' for Parties

WASHINGTON (AP) — Leaders in the nation's business and social circles were among the major financial "angels" of the Republican and Democratic parties in 1952 and 1953.

The Rockefellers, the Mellons, the Pews and the duPonts contributed handsomely to the Republican National Committee, while the coffers of the Democratic National Committee got hefty boosts from the Dukes, the Vredenburghs, the Fields and the Sonneborns.

Names of individuals contributing funds to the two political parties must be filed with the clerk of the House six times during an election year and four times in off-years. Federal law prohibits any individual from donating more than $5,000 to a national political party, but puts no limitation on how many members of the same family may give the maximum.

Neither does it require publication of the names of donors to political groups which are not national, such as state committees.

The Rockefellers, for example, gave $17,000 to the GOP National Committee in 1952. Contributions of $3,000 each were made by Laurance Rockefeller, David Rockefeller, Winthrop Rockefeller and John D. Rockefeller III, all of New York, while John D. Rockefeller Jr., and Mrs. John D. Rockefeller Jr. gave $2,500 each.

The duPonts of Delaware made four separate donations totaling $4,500 to the Republican cause.

The Mellons of Pittsburgh went over the $8,000 mark with four donations to the GOP.

The Pews of Philadelphia tossed $12,000 into the GOP treasury and the Lilly family of Indianapolis contributed $8,000 to the Republicans.

Two contributions totaling $5,000 were made to the Democratic National Committee by Angier Biddle Duke of New York.

From the Sonneboms of New York the Democrats received $15,000 in separate donations.

Separate contributions of $2,500 each were made in the name of Dorothy Vredenburg and Mrs. Dorothy Vredenburg, while a $5,000 donation was attributed to Peter Vredenburg III. The Vredenburgs are from Birmingham.

Mrs. Perle S. Mesta, who was minister to Luxembourg under the Democrats, gave that party $2,000.

Marshall Field and Mrs. Marshall Field of New York and Chicago aided the Democratic cause by $3,000 each.

Optometrists say that women are only one-fifth as likely to be color blind as men.

GUNMEN GET $40,000

CLEVELAND (AP)—Two gunmen, arriving at quitting time when the safe was open, held up Philip Rubinow yesterday and made off with an estimated $40,000 worth of precious stones from his jewelry store on the third floor of the Schofield Bldg. in downtown Cleveland.

Fall Plantings Doing Badly

This Year's Harvest Big, Next One To Be Smaller

By OVID A. MARTIN

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Agriculture Department says farmers are harvesting the third largest volume of crops in history but are running into trouble on crops sown this fall for harvest next year.

In an October crop report yesterday, the agency said favorable weather in September helped develop crops and bear out its earlier forecast that the crop volume would be topped only by harvests in 1948 and 1952.

A 15,596,000-bale cotton crop estimate led Secretary of Agriculture Benson to order a cotton growers' vote Dec 15 on rigid marketing quotas At least two-thirds of those voting must aprove

To carry out the quotas, which would require cotton farmers to [illegible] cut next year's crop more than a third below this year's, Benson announced a 1954 planting allotment of 17 910 448 acres This year farmers planted 24½ million acres to cotton

Wheat growers already have approved quotas on their 1954 crop Most types of tobacco will be grown under controls and farmers will vote Dec 15 on quotas for next year's peanut crop

But dry weather was said to be retarding preparations of fields and seeding of winter wheat, rye and oats for harvest next year The department said that throughout the country much grain has been sown in the dust

The new report cut 2 million bushels off the corn forecast but left it at a far-above average size of 3 196 000 000 buseis This reduction did not alter prospects that acreage planting allotments will be used on corn next year to prevent overproduction

The department said this year's corn crop is mostly of good quality and ready for gribbing because of low moisture content.

Record crops of rice, cranberries and pecans were reported Besides corn, larger than average crops were reported for winter wheat, cotton, hay, flaxseed, tobacco, sugar cane, sugar beets, and cherries Near average yields were indicated for spring wheat, dry beans, barley, grapes and apricots, while below average crops were estimated for oats, barley, [illegible] rye, sorghum grain, peanuts, potatoes sweet potatoes, hops, aples peaches and pears.

In another report, the department estimated that 11,299 000 persons were employed in farming during the last week of September That is nearly 450,000 fewer than a year earlier, it said, and the lowest number for this time of year in nearly 30 years of record

Farm wage rates were reported to be three per cent higher than in midsummer and about one per cent higher than a year ago.

Baker was given the award for his efforts as assistant section chief, supervising repairs of all types of signal radio equipment used by units of the Division

The citation credits him with working extra hours voluntarily to fix radio sets used in combat Baker was also called upon frequently to go to the main battle line and install, repair, and maintain radio sets in tanks in the combat zone.

He entered the Army in June 1951 Before that he was employed in the drafting and engineering department of General Telephone Co, the position he now holds.

Security Benefits Show Big Increase

CHICAGO (UP)—Social security benefits are being extended to an increasing number of state and local government employes, according to the American Municipal Association.

The association said a score of laws have been passed this year extending the benefits of old age and survivors' insurance under the Federal Social Security Act to government employes.

Prior to 1950, the federal act did not apply to employes of state and local governments. But in 1950, amendments to the act permitted states to pass enabling legislation.

Under such enabling legislation, a government is authorized to enter into an agreement with the Federal Security Administrator to extend old age and survivors insurance to those state and local employes not already covered by a state or local pension plan.

The association said all but five states have passed such enabling legislation.

Virginia, Iowa, Oregon, South Dakota and Wyoming liquidated their existing retirement plans, enacted enabling legislation for social security coverage, and then established a new retirement system to supplement social security.

Mississippi, which did not have a state plan, brought its employes under social security and then adopted a supplementary retirement system. Recently, Arizona acted in similar manner.

Wisconsin's state retirement system originally was designed to have social security as a base on which the state would superimpose its retirement plan. This year, Congress passed an amendment specifying that Wisconsin could cover its employes with social security and its own state plan.

Vaccine Developed For Sheep Disease

DAVIS, Calif. (UP) — A vaccine to immunize sheep against blue-tongue disease may be ready for use soon in wool-growing areas should an outbreak occur.
